Three-Way Struggle Over Historic Port Mercer Bridge Involves Canal Commission, Lawrence, Mercer Boards

The D&R Canal Commission, the Lawrence Planning Board and the Mercer County Planning Board are locked in a three-way struggle over the fate of the historic Port Mercer bridge over the D&R Canal at Quaker Road and Province Line Road.

Each of these planning entities must approve the plans of the Yorkshire Village — a 880-unit townhouse and apartment development proposed for some 160 acres behind the Mercer Mall and Route 1 — if that development is to proceed. Each has opposing views as to how the intersection at Quaker Road and Province Line Road should be improved to handle the traffic.

The tract borders the D&R Canal. In 1980, the D&R Canal Commission was granted the authority by the State Legislature to review all development applications within 1,000 feet of the canal and to veto those which do not conform with park preservation guidelines. According to James Amon, Canal Commission executive director, the Commission has not vetoed any development application in the intervening years, although it has, as he puts it, "mightily changed" many of the site plans during the application process.

That veto power may be put to the test over the Yorkshire Village application, which has yet to be decided by the Lawrence Planning Board. Two special meetings for hearing the application have been scheduled for Tuesday, April 4, and Monday, April 10. The Planning Board meets in the Lawrence municipal building on Route 206 at 8 p.m.

At the Canal Commission's last regular meeting March 15, the Commission reaffirmed its opposition to the Lawrence traffic consultant's recommendation that a new three-lane bridge with a traffic light on the Princeton side of the Canal be required as a condition of approval of the Yorkshire application.

The Commission, which also has jurisdiction over structures within the Canal park, including the design and

Nine-Lane Bridge to Span Route 1 at College Road

It wasn't a ground-breaking in the usual sense. Ground had already been broken in a wide swath on both sides of the Route 1-College Road intersection, and the ground work for the nine-lane bridge that will span that intersection is clearly underway.

But the fact that the $20 million dollar bridge is being paid for entirely out of private sources — Princeton University/Princeton Forrestal Center and the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation — coupled with the fact that a grateful N.J. Department of Transportation bent over backwards to expedite the design and review process — called for a celebration.

So a fancy sit-down luncheon at the Marriott Hotel was held in place of an outdoor, shovels-in-the-dirt groundbreaking. There were brief remarks by three individuals. Robert Wolfe, general manager of the Forrestal Center, listed key dates in the development of the Center and talked about the public-private Route One Corridor study out of which came not only several recommendations to improve the highway but also the public-private Regional Forum and a concerted effort to manage and channel growth.

Deputy DOT Commissioner Robert A. Innocenzi congratulated Princeton University and the Robert W. Johnson Foundation for providing the funds for the overpass and said more public-private partnerships would be necessary as construction costs rise and public funds fall short. The traffic light at the College Road intersection will be eliminated when the bridge is completed, bringing the DOT one step closer to achieving its goal of removing "as many traffic signals as possible along the corridor," Mr. Innocenzi said.

Plainsboro Mayor Peter Cantu called the bridge an example of what can be accomplished when business and government work together, but he challenged the State Legislature to adopt the remaining two elements of the Transplan package designed to be a growth management tool. He also asked the DOT to expedite its plans for the Scudders Road overpass — which is also within Plainsboro Township — and asked for public funds to match the generosity of these two representatives of the private sector.

The nine-lane bridge is expected to be open to traffic by December — the same month that the Harrison Street bridge and the Carter Road bridge are expected to reopen to traffic. Final completion with landscaping is scheduled for spring, 1990.

The bridge has been designed as a single span without a pier in between the

Five Township Candidates Standing for School Board

Borough voters in the April 4 School Board election will see only one candidate on the ballot. Allen Grossman, who is running for an uncontested seat. This will be Mr. Grossman's second consecutive three-year term on the School Board. He was also a member from 1980 to 1984.

The picture differs markedly in the Township, where voters may choose from two candidates running for a one-year term (the uncompleted term of Steven Schlossstein, who resigned last year), and three candidates running for two three-year terms.

This week's issue of TOWN TOPICS will focus on the two who are vying for the one-year term, Sandra Goettner and Susan Tarr. Those running for north and southbound lanes of Route One. Not only is this for aesthetics but also to speed construction by eliminating disruptive activity within Route One itself. Route One will be widened to three lanes each way as part of this project, although only two through lanes will be used until the rest of the highway between New Brunswick and Trenton is similarly widened.

The interchange will include three access loops, two on the west side of the highway and one on the east. In all, the interchange encompasses 41 acres of land. Princeton University owns the land on three of the four corners and will pay 84 percent of the $20 million cost, and Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, on the other corner, will pay the remaining 16 percent.

In June of 1985, the Foundation brought suit against Plainsboro to halt construction of Princeton Forrestal Village until there were assurances that an overpass would be built in time to handle the resulting traffic. The Foundation argued that since the overpass would largely benefit the adjacent private landowners, they should pay for it and not wait for the DOT. At the same time, a grade-separated interchange at College Road was estimated to cost $13.5 million and was not on the DOT's list of priorities.

Pressure was also brought to bear by Plainsboro Township, which adopted a Transportation Improvement District ordinance giving it power to assess landowners for the cost of the intersection improvement. The University meanwhile indicated it would be willing to pay for half the cost if the DOT would pay for the other half.

An agreement was reached in September 1986 whereby the University agreed to fund the bulk of the cost in exchange for the DOT's willingness to expedite the design and review process. DOT engineers began work on the design that fall.

The interchange has been engineered by Edwards Kelcey, Inc. of Livingston, and the Georgs Harms Construction Company of Farmingdale is the contractor. Harms also built Scudders Road which traverses Princeton Forrestal Center.

Roger Wells Inc. of Haddonfield is designing the landscape for all quadrants of the intersection.

Asked to comment on the event which the luncheon was celebrating, Sam Hamill, executive director of MSM Regional Council, said the fact that the bridge is being paid for entirely by private funds underscores the need for the State Legislature to adopt the Transportation Development Districts Act, the part of Transplan currently before the State Senate.

That act would allow counties in create transportation improvement districts within which all developers would be assessed on a fair share basis. "As it is now, two big developers — Princeton Forrestal Center and Carnegie Center — are picking up the tab for everyone else along Route 1," Mr. Hamill remarked.

number of bridges, wants a two-lane bridge, in keeping with all the other bridges across the Canal. Furthermore, the Commission says that if a new bridge is built, the existing Port Mercer bridge should be closed to automobile traffic in order not to increase the number of canal crossings. The Commission also proposes that Quaker Road end in a dead end and that the road along the Canal embankment be closed to traffic.

The Lawrence traffic consultant says that if the Commission will not approve a three-lane bridge and a traffic light to facilitate turning movements to and from Princeton, the old bridge should be retained for this purpose. The Lawrence Planning Board has also suggested that if the Canal Commission won't agree to what it feels is necessary to handle traffic, the present situation should be allowed to remain.

According to Mr. Amon, Mercer County has said it will exercise its own veto power and not approve the Yorkshire Village development if some provision is not included for the improvement of the Quaker Road/Province Line Road intersection. The County's master plan shows a new crossing at the point where Province Line Road bends sharply. The County has not taken a position on the Port Mercer bridge issue, Mr. Amon says.

He says the Commission feels the "Canal is being asked to pay the price" for municipal zoning practices. These zoning practices allow high density development, which in turn generates traffic, and the traffic needs a way to get across the Canal.

Mr. Amon points to the two shopping centers which Lawrence has permitted at the Quaker Bridge Road/Route 1 intersection. Furthermore, if Lawrence changes the zoning on a tract behind the Quaker Bridge Mall from industrial to residential, as is proposed under its master plan and in a package of zoning ordinances about to be forwarded to the Lawrence Council, there is a developer ready with a proposal for 1200 units for that tract. And there is another shopping center proposal under consideration for in front of the Quaker Bridge Mall.

Mr. Amon calls the situation vis-a-vis Yorkshire Village "a genuine dilemma. Everyone is digging in their heels, and I frankly don't know how this thing will turn out." He expects to meet with representatives of Lawrence, Princeton, and the County on Monday.

In the fourth corner of this dilemma is the developer, an out-of-town group calling itself Lawrence Associates, which has sought for two years to gain approval of its proposal, even reducing the total number of units from 966 to 880 and refiguring the layout in response to criticism. The developer has indicated a willingness to build the re-aligned Province Line Road through the development and the bridge in whatever way it is directed to.

No Opening to Route 206 For Griggs Farm Units

Princeton Community Housing has been forced to make last-minute changes in the road layout of its Griggs Farm development to eliminate the entrance/exit on Route 206 because of recent actions on the part of the New Jersey Department of Transportation. The change will result in a second entrance/exit from the 280-unit development onto Cherry Valley Road.

According to Robert Cawley, who heads the Griggs Farm Council of PCH with Harriet Bryan, after months of delay in which PCH fully expected the highway opening permit to be granted, the DOT approved an entrance permit but with conditions that were so onerous that PCH has decided to eliminate that entrance. Among the conditions was a requirement for adding an extra lane in either direction to Route 206 from Griggs Farm all the way to the traffic light at the intersection of Cherry Valley Road.

PCH or Princeton Township would have been expected to secure the necessary right-of-way and pay for the physical widening, Mr. Cawley says. PCH is a non-profit community housing organization that is developing the 26-acre Griggs Farm tract in partnership with the Township as a major component of the Township's affordable housing program.

The project calls for 280 apartment and townhouse units, one-half of which will be for rent and for sale to low and moderate income families at rentals and prices geared to income. The 140 market units will be at prices that are considerably lower than the average sales price of housing in Princeton recently.

Mr. Cawley says that PCH explored the possibility of making a second appeal to the DOT but learned that the answer was likely to be an unequivocal "No." He thinks this may be because of the law recently signed by the governor giving the DOT more authority to refuse curb cuts in state highways.

PCH has been using a temporary entrance from Cherry Valley Road by extending the part of its loop road that will be known as Billy Eillis Lane in order to provide access to model units in building seven. PCH has asked its engineer Van Note Harvey to plan this extension as a permanent part of the site plan.

Back to the Planning Board. Mr. Cawley hopes to bring the revised site plan with detailed engineering drawings to the Planning Board for its approval on May 2. As part of the changes, two detention basins on the eastern side of the site will be combined into one and located where the entrance from Route 206 was going to be.

Removing the Route 206 entrance apparently causes other technical problems, such as the radius of curves and side-yard distances. "It's hard to move things around on a site as far advanced as this without needing a variance," Mr. Cawley says. "We're trying to figure out what is the variance that would be most acceptable."

Meanwhile, PCH met with neighbors on Hillside Avenue to explain the problem and ask for their forbearance. According to Township Committeewoman Janet Mitchell who attended the meeting as a member of the Township Housing Board, the neighbors are being "marvelously uncomplaining about construction dust blowing into their homes" and took this change in stride.

Their major concern, according to Ms. Mitchell, is that Griggs Farm residents exiting onto Cherry Valley Road will use Hillside Avenue as their

Water Pollution Bill Advances

A measure which would impose tougher water pollution penalties against polluters has been approved by the State Assembly's Environmental Quality Committee.

The bill calls for mandatory jail sentences for serious polluters and mandatory minimum fines. It would also strengthen requirements for environmental monitoring and reporting for businesses and municipal authorities that discharge waste into waterways.

Known as the Clean Water Enforcement Act, the measure's unanimous committee approval was greeted with cheers by dozens of environmentalists in the committee meeting room.

Gun Control

A bill to allow State voters to decide if they want a ban on fully automatic weapons and most handguns has been approved by a State Senate committee. If the bill becomes law, the question would be on the ballot next fall in a nonbinding referendum.

Senate President John Russo, D-Ocean, who introduced the bill, said the referendum will be a "good way to gauge public sentiment" for stricter gun laws."

Under the measure, owners of registered guns would be able to keep their weapons until they die. Their guns would then be turned over to authorities by their estates. The legislation also provides a ban on the possession and sale of automatic weapons and most handguns.

The Legislature is split on the bill, which has been the target of heavy lobbying by the National Rifle Association.

Judicial Appointments

Two Mercer County attorneys have been nominated to the State Superior Court by Gov. Thomas Kean. Both nominees — Andrew J. Smithson of Lawrence and Thomas P. Kelly of Hamilton — are Republicans.

The nominations have been sent to the State Senate for approval.

Arts Funds to Transit?

Legislation which would provide more funding for financially troubled N.J. Transit has been introduced in the State Senate. The measure would take $33 million earmarked for the Newark Arts Center and use it instead to offset a potential $55 million deficit for N.J. Transit.

The monies would offset a proposed 15 percent fare increase and planned cuts in service. "The money some legislators want to use for the arts center could cut fares by five to six percent and restore a substantial portion of the bus and rail lines N.J. Transit says it plans to eliminate due to lack of resources," said the four Republican Senators sponsoring the bill: Senators Gerald Cardinale, Louis Bassano, Henry P. McNamara and John Dorsey.

preferred path to Route 206 rather than going to the light at the intersection. They hope that Hillside can be made one-way to prevent this from happening.

According to Mr. Cawley, PCH plans to increase the planting between Billy Ellis Lane and the neighboring properties. But he says, somewhat wearily, "This is a fairly major change that comes at a late day. It is incredible to some of us the drastic reaction on the part of the DOT.

"We had every confidence that application [for a highway opening permit] would sail through."

$2.8 Million Settlement To Princeton Resident

Photographer John W. Simpson, 44, whose face and legs were badly burned in a 1983 accident on Princeton Pike, was awarded $2.8 million in an out-of-court settlement. He blamed the crash on a blackout caused by a commercial weight-loss diet.

In November, 1983, trying to lose 50 pounds, Mr. Simpson went on a diet prescribed by the Diet Center of Princeton. On November 11, he blacked out at the wheel of his Volkswagen Rabbit convertible. The car veered off the road, traveled 700 feet across Reed's Sod Farm, slammed into a tree, and caught fire, said Mr. Simpson's lawyer, Albert M. Stark.

Volkswagen of America had also been named as a defendant, but an out-of-court settlement had been reached earlier with the car manufacturer, said Mr. Stark. The terms of that settlement, he said, were kept secret.

Mr. Stark stated that Mr. Simpson suffered third-degree burns on his face and legs and is permanently scarred, despite nearly 50 skin-grafting procedures.

Mr. Simpson sued the Diet Center of Princeton and the Diet Center of America, alleging the blackout was caused by excessive weight loss and a potassium deficiency, said Mr. Stark. The lawyer claimed the defendants were negligent in supervising the diet for Mr. Simpson, who had suffered two previous blackouts and was showing symptoms of a system not functioning properly.

Andrew Goldstein and William Garrigle, attorneys for the diet centers, contended that Mr. Simpson had not properly followed the diet.

Shortly before going to trial before Mercer County Superior Court Judge Philip S. Carchman, the lawyers reached a settlement. Under its terms, Mr. Simpson will immediately receive $1.5 million of the full settlement, with the balance to be paid over the next 25 years.

Adoption of 1989-90 Budget By Princeton Regional

The Princeton Regional School Board formally adopted its 1989-90 budget at its meeting on Tuesday, March 14. Borough and Township residents will have the opportunity to vote on the budget in the April 4 School Board election.

The 1989-90 current expense portion is $21.a million, a ten percent increase over last year. The capital expense portion is $300,000, 5.9 percent less than last year.

The Township school tax will rise from $1.42 per $100 of assessed valuation to $1.57. The Borough rate will rise from $1.42 to $1.47.

Georgia Driver Charged; Carrying Loaded Pistol

A 54-year-old resident of Marietta, Ga., Henry Owens Jr., has been charged by Borough police with illegal possession of a hand gun and possession of less than 50 grams of marijuana.

Owens has been taken to the Mercer County Detention Center to await Grand Jury action, following his arraignment before Borough Judge Russell W. Annich Jr. who set bail at $10,000.

Owens's was arrested and taken to headquarters late Thursday afternoon, after Sgt. Charles Davall had stopped his car on John Street. Owens appeared nervous when talking to the officer and it was obvious, Capt. Thomas Michaud said, that he was trying to hide something by keeping a pocket of his jacket out of view.

Owens was found to be in possession of a fully-loaded, five-shot, stainless-steel, .38 caliber snub-nosed revolver. Police also found in his car three .41a shotgun shells and a plastic, zip-lock baggie believed to contain marijuana.

According to Capt. Michaud,

Shoplifter Loses Twice: His Theft and Purchase

A shoplifter ended up a double loser last week when he rushed out of a Witherspoon Store, leaving behind two shirts he had attempted to steal — and a pair of trousers he had bought.

Police report that a tall, thinly-built black male in his early 20s, wearing a T-shirt and black jacket, had entered The Lodge and tried on different articles of clothing. After buying a pair of trousers, he attempted to try on some more clothing, taking a blue canvas bag with him into the dressing room.

When a clerk informed him that was not allowed unless the bag's interior was inspected, police said the suspect opened the bag and threw two new shirts he had shoplifted onto the counter and fled — leaving behind his purchase.

A second shoplifting took place in the CVS store on Nassau Street early Friday evening.

A customer, who police described as a black female, about 32, 5-6, 120 pounds, was browsing at the cologne counter holding a $42 bottle of cologne in her hand when she was observed stuffing the bottle into a bag and quickly walking outside.

Police called to the scene searched the area but were unable to locate the suspect.

3 Children Leave Home; Blame Physical Abuse

Two boys, 10 and 13, and a nine-year-old girl, heading from Plainfield to an aunt's home in Trenton to escape allaged physical abuse at home, ended up in Princeton Monday night.

According to Capt. Thomas Michaud, the three had taken a train to Trenton and had apparently gotten off by mistake at Princeton Junction where they took the 'Dinky' into Princeton. Police received a call around 10:30 from someone in the Wawa Store on University Place reporting three runaway children inside the store.

The three told Ptl. Joseph Withalm and Ptl. Edward Sullivan that they were running away because their stepfather was too strict, that he had punched them and they were concerned for their safety.

Capt. Michaud said that all lived at the same address but each had a different last name. They were later released to the custody of a relative.

Police have since been in contact with the aunt and the Division of Youth and Family Service. Capt. Michard said the the parents have also been notified.

Still No Decision Made On Sludge Agreement

Township Committee has put off once again voting on the joint resolution that sets the terms and conditions by which the Stony Brook Sewerage Authority will conduct its proposed expanded sludge cake incineration operation.

Committee spent two hours going over new wording to the joint resolution that it discussed the previous week. Nine new conditions were added, bringing the total to 25. Some have to do with the clean-up of trucks bringing sludge to the treatment plant on River Road and clean-up of any spills.

One says the Authority will not lower its emission stack criteria "even if" the State lowers its minimum emission quality limitations. The 25th and final paragraph states that there can be no changes in the joint resolution unless all three signers — the Borough, SBRSA and the Township — concur in writing.

The Township did not discuss the changes it proposed to make in the joint resolution with the Authority before its attorney, Edwin Schmierer, drafted them with the help of Denyse Reid of the Environmental Commission and Margaret Junker of the Health Commission. Nor did it discuss the proposed changes with the Borough.

Differing Versions. Not surprisingly, the Authority had some objections to the new language. The Borough attorney

Kindergarten Registration Set For Princeton Regional Schools

Kindergarten registration for children entering kindergarten in September is scheduled for Tuesday, April 11, Wednesday, April 12, and Thursday, April 13, from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Children should be registered at Community Park, Littlebrook or Riverside according to their current school district. In order to register for kindergarten, a child must reach 5 years of age on or before November 30, 1989. Princeton residency must also be established.

It is not necessary for parents to bring their children to registration. They should bring, however, their child's birth certificate and medical records — particularly immunization records. Under State law, students who lack the following immunizations cannot be admitted: DPT, oral polio, measles vaccine, rubella vaccine and mumps vaccine.

If a parent is not fluent in English, he or she is welcome to bring a friend or relative along to interpret. Parents are also encouraged to inform school personnel, during registration, of any condition which might affect educational planning for the child.

Parents should complete the registration process on April 11, 12 or 13 in order to help school officials organize classes for next year and to schedule kindergarten screening. This will be held on Wednesdays during May.

For further information call the office of the assistant superintendent, 924-5621.

had prepared his own set of proposed changes in the original joint resolution. Committee was thumbing through several different memos, while an audience of residents who are adamantly opposed to the sludge cake burning waited their turn to speak.

The residents who last week had urged Committee to endorse the proposal — believing it was the best way to get improvements to the plant to control odor — stayed home this week.

According to John Werth, Township representative to the Authority, the SBRSA is willing to accept all but two of the nine new conditions, although it was clear that it was not completely happy with the tinkerings to the original 16 paragraphs. The two new conditions that the SBRSA found unacceptable are the one about agreeing not to lower emission standards if the State lowers its standards and the requirement that all three signers concur in writing to any changes in the resolution itself.

Several Committee members and members of the audience viewed this reluctance as an indication that the Authority is not intending to abide by any of the directives but would change them unilaterally unless bound by paragraph no. 25. However, Ezra Bixby, SBRSA chairman, told Committee in a letter he wrote earlier in the day that the SBRSA is "an autonomous body with certain rights, and more importantly, many duties and responsibilities.

"Requiring us to obtain your agreement before acting in response to those duties is, in effect, allowing another body, which cannot be held accountable for our actions, to possibly interfere with or delay our ability to act. In view of the currently proposed 'Bennett' legislation which would impose heavy civil and criminal penalties on the Authority, its staff and its individual members for failure to operate our facilities as required, we cannot cede our authority to you."

'Binding Effect.' Mr. Bixby went on to say that the SBRSA attorney had advised the members that the joint resolution "does have legal significance and it does have a binding effect on the Authority and is an action that the Authority could not lightly disregard in terms of how it dealt with this issue hereafter."

There are indications in this letter that Mr. Bixby's patience is wearing thin at the delay in adopting the resolution beyond the three-month study period agreed to last December. That agreement set forth the conditions by which the two municipalities would withdraw the lawsuit which they threatened in order to stop the Authority from going ahead with its proposed bond sale. The bond sale included plant improvements to allow for expanded sludge cake burning.

Under this agreement, SBRSA agreed to drop the plant expansion portion of the bond issue; to install odor-reducing afterburners whether or not the expanded sludge cake operation was implemented; to review the by-laws and service agreements as to their continued relevance; to consider "host benefits" after the bond issue was resolved; and to set up a study committee to study the sludge cake issue. This committee was given three months, to March 15, to complete its work.

Representatives of the Health Commission, the Environmental Commission, and the two governing bodies, with input from SBRSA staff, constituted this study committee. Certain conditions were proposed and incorporated in the original joint resolution. The SBRSA agreed to an oversight committee made up of West Windsor and South Brunswick representatives as well as Princeton representatives.

Additional Revenue. Mr. Bixby also points out that the sludge cake facility will generate additional revenue for the Authority, 50 percent of which would accrue to the benefit of the two Princetons. Having pointed all this out, he then goes on to say that the Authority feels it has "acted in good faith in attempting to resolve those issues originally raised and that it would be a real tragedy for this program to fail [over the issue of paragraph 25, no changes without written concurrence of all three signers]."

He adds that if the joint resolution fails, there is "the real possibility" of the Authority proceeding with the sludge cake facility "in any event. We feel that we have gone beyond the original agreement of December, that we have dealt in good faith with you and have

Candidates' Forum

On Monday, April 3 — the eve of the School Board election — a Candidates' Forum will be held at the Princeton High School Davis Conference Room from 7:30 to 9 p.m. This event, organized by a group of interested parents, will give the Princeton electorate a chance to hear the candidates for School Board answer questions about themselves and their goals for the school system.

A moderator will read questions from the audience and each candidate will be given a chance to respond.

Panel Discussions Set To Mark Coeducation

Princeton will keynote an 18-month celebration of its 20th anniversary of undergraduate coeducation with two panels planned for the afternoon of Friday, March 31.

The event at Alexander Hall will begin at 1 p.m. with welcoming remarks by President Harold T. Shapiro. He will be followed by panel discussions at 1:30 on "The First 20 Years: Where Have We Been and What Have We Accomplished?" and at 3 on "The Next Twenty Years: Where Are We Now and Where Are We Going?" The program will close with a reception at 4:30 in the Art Museum at which there will be entertainment.

The panel discussions will consist of five-minute presentations by each of the panelists, followed by a period of questions and comments from the audience.

Invitations to the event are being sent to all undergraduates, graduate students, faculty, and administration and support staff. The Personnel Office is asking supervisors to give the released time to anyone who wishes to attend the program in the University's 15-year-old coeducational a cappella singing group.

Participants in the panel on "The First 20 Years" include former presidents Robert F. Goheen and William G. Bowen, former assistant dean of students Haley Bohen, who had principal responsibility in the Dean of Students Office for implementing coeducation, Marsha Levy-Warren '73, Juanita James '74 and Anne Mackay-Smith '80, who have served as trustees, Eugene Lowe '71, dean of students and former trustee, and moderator Nancy Weiss Malkiel, dean of the college.

The panel on "The Next 20 Years," moderated by Provost Paul Benacerraf, will include Michele Parris and Wendy Norris, and be entertained by the Katzenjammers, the University's 15-year-old coeducational a cappella singing group.

The evening before the keynote event, on Thursday, March 30, a panel of women who contributed to the book Women Reflect About Princeton will hold a public discussion of their experiences at 8 p.m. in 101 McCormick.

On Friday, March 31, at 7:30 p.m. The Women of Summer will be presented in the Film Theater at 185 Nassau Street by the two three-year terms are Joel Cooper and Eva Collins, both presently on the Board, and newcomer Michael Washington. Their interviews will appear in next week's issue of TOWN TOPICS.

Sandra Goettinger

Sandra Goettinger, 45, a resident of Snowden Lane, plans, if elected, to devote some of her time on the Board to following through on recommendations included in the "Quality of Student Life" study. She served as chair of the committee that developed the report.

The four areas dealt with in the report are self-esteem, a sense of community, relationships, and limits. It speaks of supporting and building relationships among teachers, students, and parents, and of fostering communications. "A plan has been developed by the system out of the study, and recommendations are being pursued," said Mrs. Goettinger.

Married to Ron Goettinger, a businessman, the full-time volunteer and mother of four concentrates on youth-oriented activities. She has been an adviser to the Youth Cafe since its inception, serves on the Youth Concerns Committee and chairs the Child Care Committee of the Council of Community Services, chairs the Mercer County School Age Child Care Coalition, and sits on the Women's Division Task Force for Employer-Supported Child Care.

Active in Princeton Regional PTOs since her oldest (now in college) began school, Mrs. Goettinger is running "to have a more official position so people know I can actively represent them."

She is concerned with developing the role of the school in terms of value clarification, and wants to see the schools reevaluate the role they play in society. She is also interested in alternative learning situations and styles "so all students can feel a sense of accomplishment and fulfillment."

The schools are generally excellent, says Mrs. Goettinger, who holds a master's degree from Bank Street College of Education, "but there's always room for improvement."

"It would be marvelous if more voters turned out to show interest in what's going on in the school system," she said. "I firmly believe that what is going on with youth affects all of us."

Susan Tarr

Susan Tarr, 38, is one of two candidates for the Board to have graduated from Princeton High School (the other is Eva Collins). She is the mother of two pre-school children and lives on State Road with her husband, Christopher, an attorney. Mrs. Tarr received a Ph.D. from Princeton University in physical chemistry and is a systems analyst with Bell Communications Research.

A member of the board of the Rockbrook School in Blawenburg for many years, Mrs. Tarr is currently a member of the School Board's Enrollment Study Group.

"My children are going to be in Princeton public schools, and I want to make sure that, when they get there, the education is the same quality as when I was there," she says. As a working parent, she wants to look at providing a full-day program 12 months a year, either within the system or coordinated with other groups.

Although she acknowledges that these changes won't be there for her children, "I would like to have the public schools look at the issue. Something greater than half the mothers of school children work, and we need to look at what the large majority of people need."

Mrs. Tarr sees problems arising from the substantial increase in projected enrollment in Princeton Regional. "How we can have facilities to house the children and provide what we have in the past continues to be an issue," she said.

Financing is a problem, too. "There have to be creative ways to get enough dollars. The State is not fond of funding what it considers wealthy districts."

Another issue important to her is communication, and she notes that it is difficult to get all communication lines drawn. She feels that the Board is extremely concerned and careful to allow everyone from the public an opportunity to ask questions and get clarification during meetings. "The Board should continue to make sure communication is open," she says.

Mrs. Tarr sees a greater number of special programs and a wider curriculum, particularly in social studies, than when she was at the high school. "The town is focused on quality," she says. "We have good students and good teachers, and I felt very well served by the system when I was there.

"I feel I have a lot to offer," said the Board candidate. "Given a problem, I can provide the ability to go from there and come up with a novel solution. It's what I do at my job."

She added, "I don't have an in-depth knowledge of the system, because my children are not there, but I have the capability to learn."

'Women of Achievement' Honors Joyce Carol Oates

Author Joyce Carol Oates of Princeton is among six women who will receive New Jersey Women of Achievement Awards at Rutgers University's Douglass College Friday, March 31.

The awards were established eight years ago by Douglass College, the largest college for women in the country, and the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, the largest volunteer organization for women in the State.

For more than two decades, Ms. Oates has been one of the most prolific and acclaimed American writers. Her works include her latest novel, American Appetites, as well as You Must Remember This, them, which won the National Book Award in 1970, and numerous collections of short stories, poems, plays and criticism.

Ms. Oates is the Roger S. Berlind Distinguished Professor in the Humanities at Princeton University and an editor of the Ontario Review Press. She was inducted into the American Academy-Institute of Arts and Letters in 1978 and won the O. Henry Award.

for Continuing Achievement to 1966.

The public is invited to attend the luncheon and awards celebration. Tickets are $10 and must be purchased in advance. For reservations or additional information, call Viola Van Jones at (201) 932-9729 or 932-9603.

Nominations Are Sought For Volunteer Award

The Council of Community Services is seeking nominations for the Robert E. Clancy Award for outstanding service as a volunteer. The award was initiated nine years ago by Mr. Clancy of Robert C. Clancy Associates.

The award is for individuals who volunteer their time in one-to-one, person-to-person services. "The award honors the unsung hero or heroine who spends many unrecognized hours behind the scenes working with individuals and small groups, helping local organizations serve the community," explains Pat Martin, executive director of the Council.

In addition to the adult award, there will be a special award to a young person who has made an outstanding contribution to volunteer work in the greater Princeton area. A five-member panel made up of community leaders will judge the nominations according to criteria established by the board of directors of the Council. The winner will be honored at a luncheon at the Nassau Club in April during national volunteer week.

Deadline for nominations is March 27. Nominations may be made by organizations or individuals. Forms may be obtained by calling the Council of Community Services at 924-5865 or 799-6033.

Gubernatorial Candidates At Chamber Breakfasts

The Princeton Area Chamber of Commerce will hold a series of breakfast meetings with gubernatorial candidates at the Holiday Inn, Route 1.

Princeton Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund will lead off on Friday, March 31. Congressman James Courter (R-12th District) will speak on Friday, April 7. Former State Attorney General Cary Edwards on Friday, May 5, and State Assemblyman Alan Karcher on Friday, May 12. Other candidates have also been invited, and the Chamber is awaiting confirmation.

The meetings are sponsored by the Legislative Affairs Committee of the Chamber. The public is invited. A continental breakfast will be offered at 8 a.m., followed by the candidate's presentation and a question-and-answer period. The event will end by 9:30 a.m.

Reservations are guaranteed at $11 for Chamber members and $20 for nonmembers, and must be made through the Chamber office at least 24 hours in advance, 520-1776.

Holocaust Writer Wiesel For Trenton State Talk

Writer, educator and Nobel Peace Prize laureate Elie Wiesel will speak on the Holocaust Tuesday at 8 at Trenton State College. The talk will be held at the Brower Student Center, Room 202 and is open to the public.

Seating is limited, and tickets are required. Tickets are available at the Brower Student Center information booth. For information call 771-2331.

Mr. Wiesel is both a survivor and the spiritual archivist of the Holocaust. In more than a dozen novels, plays, collections of essays, stories and dialogues, he has carried out the promise he made to himself after he was liberated from the Buchenwald concentration camp in 1945: that the purpose of his survival was "to bear witness."

Is a Chess Playing Girl An International Grand?

To the Editor of Town Topics:

There is an article in today's New York Times about a 12-year-old girl from Hungary who ranks with the great chess prodigies of all time. She is already an "international master" and is well on the way to being a "grandmaster," the article said. It made me think of the letter you printed last week about the need to "de-genderize" the titles we give people, specifically, you were taken to task for using the word "Chairman."

What are we to call this remarkable young girl? My personal preference would be "grandmistress," and I hold that many of the ills of the women's lib movement would be cured if they would drop the hideous misnomer "Miz" and revert to the charming "mistress," so rich in tradition and allusion, and while we are getting rid of horrid neologisms, "de-genderize" is high on the list.

Anyway, never mind what I think — it is our duty to find a suitable honorific for the chess world. As we know, the way you neuter "Chairman" is to lop the "man" off the end. My first impulse was to coin "international grandmast," but that seems unsatisfactory. "International grand" would be a possibility, but the trouble is it could include any woman who has grandchildren in two countries.

I apologize for raising a problem without proposing a good solution, but my point is that you're doing o.k., it's The New York Times that we need to be concerned about.

Sunday Communiversity: What's Wrong with That?

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The expression used to the media today is, "If it bleeds ... it leads." Bad news and controversy attract readers. So when we discuss anything with the press, we find the blood squeezed out and used for headline ink.

For example, after a long discussion with a reporter praising the engineering department in Princeton with having done their homework when it comes to preparation to minimize interference with Nassau Street businesses during construction of the sidewalk, the headline (in the Trenton Times) reads "39 Trees to Be Removed Along Nassau Street." Seems the cheap shot sells papers.

By the way, the issue of the trees was decided by the Shade Tree Commission which, using good sense, decided that replacing sick trees with healthy ones will in time make Nassau Street more attractive. Any large tree that was in good health remains.

The other issue that most recently attracted the stiletto of the press is Communiversity.

At Borough Merchants for Princeton's last meeting, we discussed Communiversity as we have many times before. And, as we have before discussed with Ellen Levine present, we gave our opinions of the event. There are some 180 merchants in town. None of us has heard more than four or five — no, perhaps one or two — merchants say, "It's great! Let's continue!"

On the contrary, we all lose significant revenue during the event. This creates a problem for us since we all do in deed enjoy the idea and the spirit of Communiversity. What other town can boast of a business community that gives so much of itself to its surrounding community? We give and give generously to dozens of charities and institutions who weekly call upon us for donations, advertising placements, merchandise and more. When have we ever said no?

And Communiversity? So when we comment "No more Communiversity on Saturday," what do we mean? We mean "Have it on Sunday." Instead of hurting our businesses this would actually give us another day to do business. The response we get is twofold: first, it's inconvenient for the student participants and, second, if it rains the organization would lose deposit money for sound equipment, stages, etc.

Stop for a moment here, and think. They are inconvenienced and they lose deposit money. We lose perhaps 50 to 60 times that amount if not more. Oh — the merchants are complaining again. What's that? More was discussed at the meeting? Go on.

We discussed the possibility of merchants helping to underwrite more of the cost to put on Communiversity. Nobody told you we do that already — not newsworthy, I guess. As proven over and over again, through the years we do more than just care about our town. Do you really think we want to pop the balloon of our well-meaning Communiversity friends?

Sunday Communiversity makes sense to all the merchants. Doesn't it to you?

environment. We have spent a lot of our money and, before we became organized, the North Lawrence Civic Association spent a lot of its money and time, in defense of the quality of life here in North Lawrence.

We have, in the past, supported the Canal Commission in its efforts to preserve the historic value of the canal. However, based upon the commission's recent decision to "dump all the Princeton traffic into North Lawrence," we must take issue with them. We have long supported them in their efforts as good neighbors. Since their decision, which is to direct all Princeton-bound traffic through North Lawrence, we find it very difficult to continue to support any of their efforts.

They are taking a very narrow view which is to the detriment of their neighbors' rights. The canal is an historic example of how transportation problems were solved in Mercer County many years ago. Rather than relegating this major artery of our local area to museum status, we think we should reconsider its historic transportation implications and not acerbate already difficult transportation problems here in North Lawrence.

We of North Lawrence are adamantly opposed to the Canal Commission's proposal. The Canal Commission should be considering its neighbors; it should be encouraging their support, not their ire. The lines have been clearly drawn over the months of the Yorkshire Village application, the Canal Commission has chosen to go against Lawrence Township, the County, the people trying to get to Princeton to their jobs, and the residents of North Lawrence.

We believe that there should be two crossings of the canal, one at Province Line and one at Quaker Road. To agree to any new bridge at Province Line without a bridge connecting Quaker to the back of Nassau Park is unconscionable to the concerns of the residents of North Lawrence.

We, as residents of North Lawrence, concerned about the environment and concerned about development, firmly disagree with the canal commission and its decision to route all this traffic into North Lawrence.

Flaws Are Pointed Out In Library Questionnaire

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is a letter I have sent to Borough Mayor Sigmund and Council.

I wish to call your attention to some serious flaws in the recently-distributed Princeton Public Library survey. These flaws will probably result in questionable, if not erroneous, conclusions.

If you ask a group of people "Who wants a free lunch counter?" most everyone's hand will be raised. But if you ask, "Who is willing to pay for this?" how many hands will be raised? It is the lack of any attention to the latter question that makes this survey flawed, flawed because it contains only new free lunch menu items. Consider the following:

1. There are no questions that ask if the library is doing more than is necessary. At question #15 is the label "Are we doing too much?" but there is no place to answer that question affirmatively, there are only more items from the free lunch menu.

2. Only one question (#5) of the 16 free lunch questions offers the printed option of no change (and that in the relatively uncontroversial question of library hours).

3. The respondent is asked to prioritize some free lunch menu items, but not to prioritize in relation to existing library activities. Not asked: What existing library service should be discontinued, if necessary, to get a free lunch menu item?

4. If this survey were truly honest, it would include a question such as:

How much would you be willing to pay in a real estate tax or rent surcharge, for the additional library services you desire? (a) $0; (b) $16 per month; (c) $25 per month; (d) $50 per month; (e) $100 or more per month.

Since these items are not in the survey, the survey is biased, and you should be wary of any requests to increase library funding for some new purpose based on the results of this survey, especially if the request cites "overwhelming public demand." After all, everybody loves a free lunch!

Motor Vehicle Offices No Longer Infamous

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I had the misfortune of losing my license and registration last week and dreaded having to go to our infamous Department of Motor Vehicles at Baker's Basin. I thought about the long lines, the drab atmosphere, and yes, having to stand up while you waited and waited in a room crowded with people.

Well, this letter had to be written! Congratulations! Readers be advised! The Baker's Basin Motor Vehicle offices are changed. You walk into a spacious, modern, decorative room. There is a receptionist who greets you and directs you to a numbered section. There are comfortable seats spread throughout and the wait is short, about five minutes.

What a pleasant surprise!

School Names Director Of Performing Arts

The Peddie School has announced the appointment of Albert T. Viola as director of the Richard L. Swig Fine Arts Center, a new $5 million facility scheduled to open this spring.

Mr. Viola is presently director of performing arts at Fort Worth (Texas) Country Day School. He has a varied background in music and theatre, with credits as a music composer, actor, director and producer in live stage, television, and motion pictures.

As director of the Richard L. Swig Fine Arts Center, Mr. Viola will be responsible for coordinating the curriculum and courses of the Fine Arts Department and for planning and directing programs for the Fine Arts Center. It is anticipated that the Center will serve as a cultural magnet for the greater Hightstown area, with art exhibitions, musical opportunities, lecture series, summer arts programs, and studio space for artists-in-residence.

Goals for expanding The Peddie School curriculum include initiating dance and instrumental music programs, working with other departments to promote interdisciplinary study, and promoting exchange programs with other secondary schools.

New Exhibit Opens On Bainbridge House

What do an 18-century tanner, a 19th-century doctor, an early 20th-century Princeton University student and the Princeton Public Library have in common?

All were once residents of Bainbridge House, the historic Georgian building on Nassau Street that has been the headquarters of the Historical Society for more than 20 years. "If the Walls Could Speak... Bainbridge House, 1766-1989," an exhibition on view in the gallery of Bainbridge House from March through July, describes the tenure of these diverse inhabitants, as well as the architectural significance of Bainbridge House and the efforts made by the Historical Society to preserve this important structure for future generations.

Featured in the exhibition are photographs, prints, architectural drawings, documents, and artifacts. One of the highlights of the show is a tanner's ledger from the 1700s kept by Job Stockton, the builder of the house. A first cousin of Richard Stockton, signer of the Declaration of Independence, Mr. Stockton conducted his tanning business behind Bainbridge House near what was once the site of a spring, and is now Spring Street.

After Mr. Stockton's death the house became a rental property and its most illustrious resident was William Bainbridge, Commander of the USS Constitution, Old Ironsides. Included in the show are pages from the Bainbridge family bible recording the birth of William Bainbridge in 1774. A 19th-century newspaper advertisement for the house vividly describes the property including "a shop attached (to the house), two water and three lime pools. Tan house and currying shop...Bark house and Mill House."

By the late 19th century Bainbridge House was a boarding house for families and University students. Among the residents during this period was the LaVake family, of LaVake's Jewelers, and one of the most unusual historical artifacts that has been found in the walls of the house is Myron LaVake's baseball bat inscribed with his name and probably dating from 1881. Also included in the show is a leaded glass transom window with the "lamp of learning" from the 1937 restoration of the buildings by the Public Library.

Architectural drawings by the noted colonial revival architect Ralph Bauhan are featured as well as drawings of the house done in the 1930s by the Historic American Building Survey. Photographs dating from the 1870s to the 1970s further document the extraordinary history of the building.

Bainbridge House is open to the public Tuesday through Sunday from noon until 4, and guided tours of the house and exhibition are available during open hours. For further information on the exhibition and all of the Historical Society's programs, call 921-6748.

Nobel Laureate Wiesel To Speak on Holocaust

Writer, educator and Nobel Peace Prize laureate Elie Wiesel will speak on the Holocaust at Trenton State College at 3 p.m. on Tuesday. The event will be held at the Brower Student Center, Room 202.

His lecture, "An Evening with Elie Wiesel," is open to the public. Seating, however, is limited, and tickets are required. These were made available in the public at no charge on a first-come, first-served basis beginning Tuesday, March 21 at the Brower Student Center Information Booth.

For many people, Elie Wiesel is both a survivor and the spiritual archivist of the Holocaust. Perhaps more than any other living writer, he forces his readers to confront the near total destruction of European Jewry. In more than a dozen novels, plays, collections of essays, stories and dialogues, Mr. Wiesel has carried out the promise he made to himself after he was liberated from the Buchenwald concentration camp in 1945: that the purpose of his survival was "to bear witness."

Over the years, Mr. Wiesel has received scores of literary awards, including the Eleanor Roosevelt Award in 1972, two National Jewish book awards, and Le Grand Prix de la Litterature de la ville de Paris in 1983. On October 14, 1986, he was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize.

Mr. Wiesel's lecture is sponsored by the Art and English departments and is made possible by a State grant and a grant from Governor Thomas Kean's Challenge to Distinction program. It is one of a series of events and courses that are being held this year at the college to increase student and community awareness of the Holocaust.

University Lecture Series Named After Interesting Individuals

Princeton University sponsors a series of public lectures each year that are designed in be of interest to a general audience ae well as to tha university community

These lectures are the result of gifts in the University thet date as far back ae 1891 The endowmenis prnduce about $40,000 annually which the Faculty Committee on Public Lectures uses to sponsor 12 in 18 lectures in the humanities, social sciences and natural sciences.

James L. Gould, professor of biology and chairman of the Biology Department, heads the Faculty Committee which is made up of the director of the Princeton University Press, Dean of the College, Dean of the Graduate School aed other faculty members In the past, there was a eertain randomness about the choice of speaker and the topics, except when it was decided to have four or five lectures on a single topic or question.

In recent years the committee has instituted a unifying theme to tia in all the lectures across all three disciplines One year the theme was "Catastrophes," anather year it was "Ethics." Next year it will be "Gender," to go along with the University'a celebration and discussion of 20 years of coeducation.

Revolutions of Many Kinds. Because 1989 is the 200th anniversary af the French Revolution, the theme for the 1988/89 public lectures is "Revolutions." The series will climax Saturday in a day-long colloquium on the French Revolution and the literature of the Revolution (see separate article)

Last October, Roderick MacFarquhar of Harvard University gave the first of two lectures on the Chinese Revolution, speaking on "Chinese Reforms to the Light of Chinese History." The second will take place Manday, May 15, when Wang Gung-Wu from the University of Hong Kong speaks on the 1949 Chinese Revolution.

In February, Jonathan D Culler of Cornell spoke on Baudelaire aed the "Revolution of Modernity," while John Hopfield of the California Institute of Technology spoke on "The Second Computer Revolution." Leon Botstein, president of Bard College, speaking on music in Viennese culture from 1900 to 1920, titled his lecture, "Aesthetic Modernism and Social Revolutions"

Still to come is a talk by Jason Morgan of the Princeton University Geology and Geophysics Department speaking on "The Revolution in Earth Science" Tuesday at 8 in Dodde Auditorium Prof Morgan is an expert in continental drift, a revolutionary way of thinking about global land masses when it was first formulated.

Paul Robinson of Stanford University has titled the talk he will give about Verdi's operas as Monday, April 3, "Revolution in the Family," while Barrington Moore of Harvard University will speak about the revolutioa in informatian Wednesday, April 12, in a talk entitled "What is Not Worth Knowing"

Stephen Jay Gould, whose reflections aa natural history in books such as Hen's Teeth and Horse's Toes and The Panda's Thumb have earned him a wide following, will be here Wednesday, May 3, to speak on "The Darwinian Revolution" Prof Gould teaches geology, biology and history of science at Harvard.

The lectures are open in the public and free of charge. They usually take place in Dodds Auditorium of the Wondraw Wilson School, but if the committee expects a big turnout it reserves the larger (and recently refurbished) McCosh 50 instead. Such is the case with Prof Could'e talk, which is the last in the 1988/89 series except for the talk on the 1949 Chinese Revolution.

Named Endowments. There are six separate endowments which fund the Univarsity Public Lecture Series two in the humanities, two in the social sciences and two in the natural sciences aed engineering Four of the six were given in memory of or named for Princeton graduates.

The oldest is the Spencer Trask lectureship established in 1891 by a gift of $10,000 from Mr Trask, a member of the Class of 1866 and a Wall Street investment banker who organized his own firm with two partners twa years after graduating. A 1958 New York Times article on Spencer Trask & Co on its 90th anniversary described the founder as "one of the most colorful figures in banking."

Mr Trask backed Thomas Edison in the development of the incandescent lamp, for instance, and played a part in the formation of the Edison Electric Light Co. in 1878. He also played a role in salvaging the New York Times when it was close to bankruptcy in 1896 and installing Adolph Ochs as editor/publisher in exchanga for soma sheres of stock. Similarly he helped James Moody set up the bond-rating organization which still bears the Moody name

Mr Trask's four children all died In childhood, and he himself was killed in a railroad accident in Croton-on-Hudson in 1909 The baronial stone mansion in Saratoga Springs, which he built and where he and his wife entertained writers and painters, later became the artists colony Yaddo.

Gertrude Stein et al. It is almost 100 years since the Spencer Trask lectures began, and the roster of speakers over the century is extraordinarily broad It includes Theodore Roosevelt, T. S. Elliot (twice), Gertrude Stein, Lillian Hellman, Niels Bohr, Norman Thomas, Margaret Meade, Robert Frost (who came to Princeton to speak or read on two other lecture series as well), Bertrand Russell aod John Gielgud, to pick out a few of the best known names

The behavioral psychologist B F Skinner drew 1,500 people to a lecture entitled "Are We Free to have a Future?" in November, 1972

The Henry Stafford Little Lectureship in almost as old, established in 1909 by a gift of $10,000 by Mr Little, a graduate of the Class of 1844 who specified that ex-President Grover Cleveland was to give the first lectures an this foundation. Cleveland gave three lectures, each of which was published by the Princeton University Press, in the nine years he livnd in Princeton before his death in 1903.

Mr. Little himself died in Trenton a year later at age 81. A lawyer with a lifeleng interest in politics aod public affairs, he was a member of the State Senate for eight years and appointed Clerk of the Chancery (as the court system was then known) in 1871. He played a role in the reorganization of the Central Railroad of New Jersey after it went into receivership and was its president for many years. He also built and was first president of the New York and Long Branch Railroad until it becama a part of the Reading system Dormitory, Too. Mr. Little founded a number of banks in Monmouth County and other sections of the State, and at the time of his death was president of the New Central Coal Co. in New York. In addition in endowing a lectureship, he gave the University $250,000 which was used to build the dormitory that bears his name. He was a bachelor, an ardent patron of sports, aed a horseback rider.

The Little lectures in the social sciences have brought ambassadors like Joseph H Chnate and Elihu Root, justices, such as Charles Evans Hughes and Felix Frankfurter, builders on a big scale, auch as Col George W Goethals and Robert Moses, aod atatesmas such as George C. Marshall and Ralph Bunche.

Less is availabin in the University archives about the life of Louis Clark Vanuxem, Class of 1879, who left $25,000 to Princeton to his will when he died to 1903 Nine years later, his executors directed that the money should be used for a lectureship, and for the printing, publication and distribution of

Colloquium Is Planned on 'Revolution and Literature in France'

Francophiles, bibliophiles and history buffs take note

As part of the Princeton University Public Lecture Series — which in this bicentennial year of the French Revolution has "Revolutions" as its theme — there will be a colloquium this Saturday on "Revolution and Literature in France." Three of the speakers are from the Princeton University faculty, and the fourth is a former member of the Princeton English Department, who is now at Yale. The talks will be held in Betts Auditorium of the School of Architecture, off Washington Road.

Robert Darntna, Shalby Cullom Davis Professor nf Eurnpean History, will lead off the colloquium with a talk at 10 a m. on "The Literary Revolution of 1789." Says Prof. Darnton, "For the first time in 18th-century France, writers began to have enormous influence in public affairs. The intellectual emerged as a social type, and even as a force to be reckoned with by a monarchy that in principle remained unlimited and absolute in power.

"But how many writers were there? Where did they come from and how did they fit mto the society of prerevolutionary France? Those questions be ve never been asked, much less answered. By pursuing them, it is possible to see the French Revolution from a new angle, and to come up with some surprising views of how literature became aa ingredient of pohtics from 1789 to 1795."

In Retrospect. Victor Brombert, Henry Putnam University Professor nf Romance Languages and Literatures and Comparative Literature, will follow at 11:15 with a talk entitled, "From the Eiffel Tewer to the Bastille, The Revolution in Retrospect." Prof. Brombert says he will be discussing "the themes of the French Revohition as they affect literature in the French collective consciousness throughout the 19th century."

He will focus on the twa "conflictual aymbolic dates," 1789, the taking of the Bastille, and 1793, the year of the Terror. Prof. Brombert says that ia his talk, "Historical memory is shown to be in conflict with efforts to erase the pasi."

During tha lanch break, sandwiches and coffee or tea will be provided at the Auditorium. At 1:30, Lionel Gossman, M. Taylor Pyne Professor of Romanca Languages aad Literatures, will speak oa "Michelet as Historian of the French Revolution."

According to Prof. Gossman, "Michelet's History is less an attempi in account far the French Revolution as an historical phenomenan than a sacrahzation of the Revolution and a celebration of revolutionary experience as transcending ordinary historical time."

The fourth speaker is David Bromwich, professor of English at Yale. The title of his talk is "Burke, Revsage, aad Revolution."

Prof. Darnton says when he was approached by the Faculty Committee on Public Lectures to give one of the lectures this year, he suggested that thera were athera on the Princeton faculty who were traveling all over the country to fill requests for lectures in honor of the bicentennial of the French Revnlution.

"It seemed to me a pity thet none of them were included in this series. So instead of just me talking, we got together a little colloquium. It will be a day of first-rate lectures by the flower of our faculty, and a day thet ordinary people will enjoy."

Prof. Darnton is especially enthusiastic about the concert of French Revolutionary songs that Helen Delavault, well-known in France as a cabaret singer and opera singer, will perfnrm Saturday at 8 in McCornick Hall of the Princeton University Art Museum.

Prof. Darnton says thet Mme. Delavauli contacted him two years ago and sent him a tape of her concert of songs sung during the French Revolution. "This is very gritty stuff," he says. "People made up doggerel poems and sang them to well-knawn tunes thet sound very much like our 'The Bear Went Over the Mountain.' They spread like wild fire."

She put togather a caberai-style concert of songs of the 1789 Revulution which were very popular. At one performance in December or January, a group of royalists stormed the atage and knocked her down. She received a letter from the President and became a heroine of the Revolution, Prof. Darnton says.

"She is six-faat tall and has flaming red hair, and to thiok thet this creature will be singing in Princeton is something!" Prnf. Darnton exclaims. "The audience will have a whale of a good time!" The concert, like the lectures, is free and open to the public.

the lectures "among schools and libraries generally."

Mr. Vauuxem studied at the University of Berlin for a year after graduating and also received an AM from Princeton many years later. He began his career with the Penn State agency of New York Life Insurance, gradually expanding his territory to include Illinois, Delaware and Ohin and subsequenily becoming an inspector of agencies for New York Life. He was involved ia relief work in Cuba and Puerto Rico in 1898, was manager of the Pennsylvania Institute of the Deaf and Dumb and a longtime trustee of Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia.

Poets and Scientists. The Vanuxem executors specified thet one half the lectures "shall be upon subjects of current scientific interest," and over the years men like Linus Pauling, George Wald, Roberl Oppenheimer and Alfred North Whitehead have come here under this sponsorship. But the roster also includes Thomas Mann, Dylaa Thomas (twice), William Carlos Williams aod Ralph Ellison.

The J. Edward Farnum lectureship was established in 1934 by a bequest nf $10,000 by George F. Farnum, Class of 1894, in memory of his younger brother, who graduaied in 1890 and died in 1917. Their father, James E. Farnum, was president of the Philadelphia and Westchester Railroad, and the family lived in Media, Pa.

The younger Farnum was an explorer who want around the wnrld ia 1904, passing through Korea, whuch at the time was little known. In 1897, he made the journey from Peking to Vladivostok, including 700 miles which had never before been traversed by a European. For thus trip he was made a member of the Royal Geographic Society of England. He collected birds and mammals for the British Museum as well.

J. Edward Farnum also made safaris in Africa to hunt and to explore. His brother George, known as Pat, dropped out of Princeton after his sophomore year and became a horticulturist, expert in growing dahlias. He requested that his bequest be used to provide lectures "by men of prominence not connected with the University."

Self-Educated. The two other endowments that make up the University Public Lecture series are named after two men who were largely self-educated and yet rose to great prominence. One is the Joseph Henry lecture series, named after the Princeton professor (1832-46) who was the leading American scientist (after Benjamin Franklin) in the 1800s.

Henry was the son of a laborer in Albany who became interested in science through a popular science magazine. He is known for his experiments in electromagnetism and the discovery of the phenomenon of induction, as well as known for the energy and experience he brought to the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C. as its first director.

The other endowment is the Walter E. Edge Lectures in Public and International Affairs, named after the former governor of New Jersey who was also a Princeton resident. Mr. Edge was a printer's "devil" on the Atlantic City Review in his youth. He served as clerk and then secretary of the N.J. Senate before being elected to the N.J. Assembly in 1910.

He subsequently served two terms in the State Senate and was a leader in securing passage of the workmen's compensation bill, among other measures. He was elected governor of New Jersey in 1917 and resigned in 1919 to take a seat in the U.S. Senate. Re-elected for a second term in 1925, he resigned to become ambassador to France in 1929.

His widow was instrumental in establishing the lectureship in 1957 as a memorial to her husband's interest in public and international affairs. Among the speakers have been Paul-Henri Spaak, secretary general of NATO, Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, former Ambassador George F. Kennan, Valery Giscard D'Estaing, member of the French Assembly and former minister of finance, and Burk Marshall, former assistant attorney general for civil rights.

There are other lectures at the University that are open to the community, but this series, endowed in the names of these six interesting individuals, are the only ones that are specifically designed as public lectures. Prof. Gould and his wife Carol have been endeavoring to publicize them more widely this year, and their efforts are paying off. Notices of the lectures are sent out to a mailing list of about 200 people.

Those who want to be included on the mailing list should contact Prof. Gould at the Biology Department, in Guyot Hall, Princeton University, Princeton 08544. The phone number is 452-3841, or the Goulds at 683-6178.

Jason Morgan

Continental Drift Expert To Speak at University

Prof. Jason Morgan of Princeton University's Department of Geology and Geophysics will give a talk on "The Revolution in Earth Science" Tuesday at 8 in Dodds Auditorium, Woodrow Wilson School.

A Fellow of the National Academy of Sciences since 1[illegible] and winner of several prestigious awards in the geosciences, Dr. Morgan was instrumental in determining how continents shift and realign themselves, a discovery that has been in itself a scientific revolution. His talk will be aimed at a broad nonspecialist audience, and will be a personal perspective on the process of that revolution, particularly on why continental drift was generally rejected before the 1960s but is now widely accepted.

Part of the University's Public Lecture Series on the theme of "Revolutions," Prof. Morgan's talk is sponsored by the Joseph Henry Lecture Fund.

Hundred-Acre Egg Hunt At Living History Farm

The Mercer County Park Commission's fourth annual "Hundred-Acre Egg Hunt" will be held at 11 a.m., Saturday at Howell Living History Farm.

Two hundred dozen eggs will be hidden in the pastures, meadows and fields of the 126 acre farm. Chocolate rabbits, pony rides and lucky horseshoes will be offered to finders of specially marked eggs.

Children age 3 and under can visit the henhouse, where they will collect an egg from the nest boxes of laying hens. Henhouse visits for tots are scheduled from 11 to 1.

"Egg Coloring with Natural Dyes," a craft program for children of all ages, will be offered in the carriage house from noon to 3. There will be a $1 materials fee.

Throughout the day, visitors may peek into a circa 1910 "wooden hen" where eggs are incubating, see day-old chicks in a brooder, and tour fields being prepared for spring planting.

Howell Farm is located off Rt. 29, on Valley Road, in Titusville, 1½ miles east of the Belle Mountain Ski Area. There is on charge for admission, parking or activities. Saturday hours are 10 to 4. The farm will be closed on Sunday.

For further information, call Pete Watson or Kathy Brilla at the Mercer Conoty Park Commission at 397-0449 or 737-3299.

A GILDED EVENING: Vivien Andrewe, left, and Maggie Henderson are dressed to represent the AAMH Fantasy Auction 1989 theme, "Store of the Silver Screen." The event will be held on April 1 at the Hyatt Regency-Princeton.

Boke Sale at Elm Court With Ceramics, Crafts

The residents of Elm court will hold a bake sale Saturday from 6 to noon. Ceramics and craft items will also be on sale.

Elm Court is the apartment unit for senior citizens and bendicapped persons built and managed by Princeton Community located at 100 Elm Road.

Conference on Campus On Science and Ethics

Princeton University students have organized a conference on "Science, Technology, and Responsibility in Society" which will be held Friday and Saturday at the Woodrow Wilson School.

The conference is organized into five sections, each with a principal speaker drawn from outside the University followed by a panel of Princeton faculty. The keynote address will be givao by Jan Beckwith, biologist at Harvard Medical School, Friday at 1:30.

Other featured speakers include Ted Taylor, nuclear physicist and solar energy expert, speaking at 4:30 Friday; Dr. Rosemary Chalk, science policy analyst at the Institute of Medicine, speaking Saturday at 9 a.m.; Ralph Nader, consumer advocate, Saturday at 1; and Dr. Lewis Thomas, medical doctor, researcher and author, who will giva the eloslog remarks Saturday at 5:30.

Dr. Taylor's section of the conference will be devoted to "The Political, Economic and Institutional Context of Science and Technology." Dr. Chalk and the panel that follows her talk will address "Ethics and Human Values in Science and Engineering." Mr. Nader's section will be on "Mechanisms for Assuring Responsible Science."

The public is welcome.

Come Make & Fly a Kite At Watershed Association

The Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association will hold a two-part, after-school kite-flying program on Wednesday, March 29, and Wednesday, April 5, at 4 p.m. The program is offered for children ages 6 through 12.

Youngsters will each first make a kite. Using dowels and other materials provided, participants will construct, decorate and set aloft two different types of kites.

There is a fee for the program and materials and preregistration is required. To register or for more information call the Watershed Association at 737-7592.

Pruning Demonstration Set at Terhune Orchards

Gary Mount, owner of Terhune Orchards on Cold Soil Road, Lawrence Township, will give a free pruning demonstration Saturday at 10:30. Mr. Mount is frequantly asked for his advice on pruning and other cultural practices in the orchards. He has taught several classes and given numerous lectures and tours.

He will demonstrate pruning techniques and equipment which the home owner can use on apple trees, both standard size and dwarf, peach trees and pear trees. He will also discuss new varieties of fruit trees suitable for planting by the home owner, and the difference between various root stocks.

PRINCETON THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY
presents
Sir John Stainer's
"The Crucifixion"

On Good Friday, March 24, 1989 at 8:00 p.m. in Miller Chapel on the Seminary campus, the Princeton Seminary Singers and Chapel Choir, with the Brick Church Choir, New York City, will present "The Crucifixion" by Sir John Stainer, a Meditation on the Sacred Passion of the Holy Redeemer.

"The Crucifixion" is under the direction of David A. Weadon, C.F. Seabrook Director of Music.

The public is invited to attend free-of-charge.

From the moment you discover your companionship with God, you begin to end the pain of loneliness.

For even in solitude, you have His thoughts to warm you. Pure, creative, loving thoughts, that make solitude as satisfying as pleasant company — and help you know the completeness He gave you.

The Christian Science Sentinel lets you see these things more clearly. Every week, each short article, editorial and testimony of healing brings assurance of God's nearness, and of His love for you.

If you'd like a sample copy, just stop in and ask for one. It's free.

Area Churches Schedule Special Services Beginning Thursday to Observe Holy Week

This week is Holy Week in Christian churches, commemorating the events leading up to Jesus' Crucifixion and Resurrection. Area churches have scheduled special services starting Thursday evening to mark the Last Supper Jesus held with his disciples and the institution of Holy Communion, and continuing through Good Friday and Easter Sunday.

The Princeton University Chapel, the Baptist Chaplaincy, the Episcopal Church at Princeton and Wesley-Westminster Foundation will co-sponsor a Maundy Thursday service Thursday at 9 p.m. in the University Chapel.

These chaplaincies will be joined by the Aquinas Institute, the Roman Catholic chaplaincy, and the Lutheran Concordia Society for a worship service on Good Friday from noon to 3. The service is divided into half-hour segments so that members of the congregation may enter and leave as their schedules dictate. The Princeton University Chapel Choir and the Princeton University Gospel Ensemble will participate.

There will be another opportunity to worship at the University Chapel on Good Friday at an 8 p.m. Service of Tenebrae. Curtis Lasell, principal University organist, will be the accompanist for all the services.

The Rev. Sue Anne Steffey Morrow, acting dean of the Chapel, will conduct a service of Holy Communion on Easter Sunday at 8 a.m. in the Chapel. She will also preach at the Easter Festival Service at 11. Mr. Lasell will be the organist, he will be accompanied by Michael J. Fitch '92 on trumpet at the 11 a.m. service.

Members of the community are welcome to any and all of the services.

Holy Week activities at The Lutheran Church of the Messiah, 407 Nassau Street, will include celebrating Maundy Thursday with an 8 p.m. service. On Friday at 8, the Good Friday Tenebrae Service will include a version of the ancient Office of Tenebrae traditionally sung in Holy Week to impress on the minds and hearts of believers the awful consequence of sin and the magnitude of the Savior's sacrifice.

Messiah Church's celebration of Easter Sunday will begin at 6:30 a.m. with an Easter Sunrise Eucharist. The service begins outdoors on the front steps of the church where striking the new fire and the pouring of water, symbolizing the Resurrection, will be followed by a procession of the congregation into the nave.

The traditional Easter breakfast prepared by the high school youth group follows at 8, and an Easter Eucharist at 10:30 concludes the activities. The Rev. Dr. John M. Goerss, pastor, will deliver the Easter message. Sunday School will meet for special Easter activities at 6, but the adult and high school Bible classes will not meet.

At Trinity Church (Episcopal), 33 Mercer Street, there will be two celebrations of the Holy Eucharist on Maundy Thursday, one at 12:10, the other at 8 p.m. The evening service will be followed by the Watch until midnight, offering individuals an opportunity for meditation in the church.

On Good Friday, from noon to 3, there will be the Preaching of the Passion, a series of meditations interspersed with readings, quiet music and prayer. The Rev. John Crocker Jr., rector, will lead the meditations on the theme "The Cross as Our Liberation." The public is invited to all or part of the three-hour long service, and may leave as they need to during the singing of the hymns.

Easter services at Trinity begin Saturday at 8 p.m. with the Great Vigil of Easter, featuring the lighting of the paschal candle, baptisms, the reading of key biblical narratives, a sermon, the first Eucharist of Easter, and special music. Sunday morning services will be at 7, when Holy Eucharist will be celebrated, and at 8:10 and 11:20, which are both Festival Eucharist Services.

Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church will hold its Maundy Thursday Communion Service Thursday at 7 p.m. The guest speaker will be the Rev. Dr. Horace Russell, former president of United Theological College, Kingston, Jamaica, and visiting professor at Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary. There will be special music by flutist Nora Stainer.

Witherspoon Church will hold a Good Friday Tenebrae Service Friday at 7 with the theme, "The Crucible of Manhood: Reflections on Christ's Last Words." Special music will be provided by violinist Phillip Pugh and the Women's Trio.

On Easter Sunday, there will be an Easter Sunrise Communion Service at 6:30. Stephen Olmstead will be the guest speaker, and the Rev. Dr. Adrian MacFarlane, pastor, will be the celebrant. At the morning worship service at 11, Dr. McFarlane will speak on "A Holy Uprising," and there will be special music by a brass ensemble and the Witherspoon Chancel Choir. All are welcome.

Nassau Presbyterian Church will celebrate the Lord's Supper Thursday at 6 in the context of a Tenebrae Service in which the sanctuary gradually darkens. Nassau Church members are encouraged to attend all or part of the Trinity Church Good Friday service Friday from noon to 3.

On Easter Sunday, there will be three services: one at 8:30 a.m. in Niles Chapel, which will include a special celebration of the Lord's Supper, and two identical services of worship at 8:30 and 11 a.m. Church school for children and adults will be held at 9:30.

Christ Congregation will have a light supper of soup, bread and cheese Thursday at 6, followed by a Maundy Thursday service of worship and Holy Communion. On Friday, there will be a Tenebrae service beginning at 7:30, which will include special music, readings and a gradual extinguishing of candlelight as participants recall Christ's suffering and death on the cross.

There will be an Easter sunrise service at 7, followed by a breakfast of bagels, cream cheese, hard-boiled eggs, fruit and coffee at 8 at the church. The regular Easter worship service will be at 10.

The Rev. Margaret Payne will preach Thursday at the 8 p.m. Maundy Thursday service at Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, Princeton-Hightstown Road, West Windsor. The service will include Holy Communion and will be preceded by a potluck supper at 6:30. On Friday, Prince of Peace will hold a Tenebrae service beginning at 8. This is a solemn service which will end in darkness.

Easter services begin at 7 with a sunrise service at the rear of the church against a background of the rising sun. Breakfast will be served at the church. The 8:30 and 11 a.m. services will feature Easter hymns by the choir under the direction of Carol Jenkins accompanied by trumpet and berp. The Rev. Gregg Kaufman will preach at both services.

All are invited.

The West Windsor Korean Presbyterian Church will hold its Easter service Sunday at 2 in the Lutheran Church at 177 Hightstown Road, West Windsor. The Rev. Young C. Hong will preach, and the service will feature favorite Easter music. The service includes many native traditional Korean customs, and everyone, especially Koreans, are invited. For information call 243-0335.

The Griggstown Reformed Church will hold a Passover Seder and Maundy Thursday Communion Service Thursday at 7:30. The Good Friday Service will also be at 7:30, with a sermon on "For Such a Love as This."

On Sunday, there will be a joint Easter dawn service at 7 a.m. with First Reformed Church of Rocky Hill at the Rocky Hill cemetary. Breakfast will follow at the church. The Rev. Dennis L. Ferguson, pastor, will preach on "Two Resurrections" at the Easter Service at 11 a.m. Nursery care is provided. Sunday School, adult bible study and the senior high seminar will take place as usual at 8:30.

Easter morning at the Hopewell Presbyterian Church will begin with a 6 a.m. sunrise communion service in the sanc-look at love, careers and life through the chance meeting and partnership of two playwrights.

On July 28, Off-Broadstreet will present the musical Chicago, a song-and-dance spectacular about Chicago in its boozy, swinging, gangster heyday. To complete the series, Neil Simon's Brighton Beach Memoirs will run September 8 through October 7.

Performances are at 8 on Friday and Saturday evenings, with dessert available at 7, and at 2:30 Sundays with dessert at 1:30. Single admission Friday and Sunday is $13.75 with Saturday admission $15. Season subscriptions offer savings on these prices, and subscribers may pick their table location.

For subscriptions call the box office at 466-2766 Wednesday through Sunday.

Ninth Summer Workshop For Ballet Students

Princeton Ballet will offer Workshop '89, its ninth summer program of intense dance study for the advanced dance student, age 14 and older, from June 26 through July 28. Workshop '89 features two ballet classes a day, which include pointe, partnering, modern and jazz. A choreography workshop will offer the students an opportunity to exercise creativity and develop communications and leadership skills. A series of lunch-time seminars on injury prevention, nutrition, auditioning and stage make-up will also be provided.

Beginning at 9:30 a.m. and lasting to 5, the day will include rehearsals for a final performance, giving students the flavor of a professional dancer's day. There will be a field trip to Lincoln Center to see a performance at the Metropolitan Opera House, as well as canoeing, swimming, picnicking and weekend activities.

The faculty, headed by Artistic Director Dermat Burke, includes Marjorie Mussman, a former soloist with the Joffrey Ballet; Trinette Singleton, also from the Joffrey; Kate Glasner, Shelley Freydont and Amy Spencer, all from the Twyla Tharp Dance company, and Robio Becker of the Martha Graham Company.

Auditions will be held in Princeton on April 2. For further information call Mary Pat Robertson, school administrative director, at 921-7758.

"Cinderella" Auditions At Mercer County College

Auditions for the Mercer Children's Theater production of Cinderella are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 28 and 29 in the Kelsey Theater, located on the West Windsor campus of Mercer County Community College.

Candidates may audition for the roles of Cinderella, the Prince, the wicked step-mother and the step-sisters, as well as for a variety of supporting parts. The show will be performed on April 29, 30, May 1, 2, and 3.

Auditions are open to anyone age 17 or older. No preparation is required. For more information, call 586-4800, extension 581.

Area Dance Companies To Participate in Sampler

The New Jersey Dance Alliance will present the "New Jersey Dance Sampler," a day of continuous performances by the State's professional dance companies on Thursday, April 6. Performances will be held at the New Jersey State Museum, Mill Hill Playhouse, and outdoors to the area of the State House lawn and State Museum sculpture garden. The dance showings will run continuously from 10 to 3. Admission is free to the public.

More than 25 dance companies will participate, and a variety of styles, including ballet, modern dance and jazz, as well as mime, will be presented. The New Jersey Dance Alliance, an association of the State's dance companies, dancers and choreographers, founded in 1986, has been instrumental in developing statewide recognition of dance and in planning the declaration of April as Dance Month in New Jersey. Dawn Upshaw

Metropolitan Opera Star To Give Concert Here

Princeton University Concerts will present the young soprano Dawn Upshaw in a recital of vocal music on Wednesday, March 29, at 9 p.m. in Richardson Auditorium. She will be accompanied by James Levine, Artistic Director of the Metropolitan Opera.

Ms. Upshaw made her Metropolitan Opera debut as the Countess Ceprano in Rigoletto during the 1984-85 season, while she was a member of the company's Young Artists Development Program. In seasons following she appeared in new productions of Khovanshchina, Carmen and as Barbarina in The Marriage of Figaro, broadcast on national television by PBS.

She won both the 1984 Young Concert Artist International Auditions and the 1985 Walter W. Naumberg Vocal Competition, which provided her with a debut recital at Lincoln Center's Alice Tully Hall in 1986. Her 1988-89 engagements include performances of Ilia in Idomeneo and Sophie in Werther at the Metropolitan Opera, Pamina in a new production of The Magic Flute for her debut at the Netherlands Opera, and a return to the Aix-en-Provence Festival as Despina in Cosi fan tutte.

Mr. Levine made his debut at the Metropolitan Opera in 1971, conducting Tosca, was appointed principal conductor in 1973, became music director in 1976, and was named artistic director in 1986. During his tenure there, he has inaugurated the Emmy-Award winning "Live from the Met" televised opera series, guest artist recitals, and a unique program for the development of young singers.

Mr. Levine appears regularly as piano accompanist in recital with many of the world's foremost singers, including Kathleen Battle, Marilyn Horne, Luciano Pavarotti, and Frederica von Stade.

The concert will feature selected songs by Schubert and Rachmaninov, as well as a song cycle by Poulenc, Fiancailles pour rire, and a new song cycle by John Harbison, Simple Daylight.

Tickets, priced between $10 and $16, are available at the Richardson Auditorium box office, open between 4 and 9 Monday through Friday. Call 452-5000. Student tickets are $6.

April Fool's Day Concert By Early Music Ensemble

The Friends of Music at Princeton will present the Princeton Early Music Ensemble in a special April Fool's Day concert entitled "Pie is in my mistress face: April Fool!" The concert will be held Saturday, April 1, at 8 p.m. in Richardson Auditorium.

The April Fool concert turns to the ridiculous side of Renaissance music and song. Although many are familiar with the frequent silliness of English madrigals and the risque double-entendre of French chansons, it is not so well known that Josquin Des Prez and the prolific Orlando di Lasso were not above spoofing their own serious work in songs dedicated to the god of wine or imitating a spelling or music lesson.

The program will be ordered not by the chronology or style of the composers, but by the various topics explored: birds, bugs, love, body parts of animals, drinking, and sheer nonsense.

The public is invited to attend without charge.

Sunday Concert Set By Collegium Musicum

The Collegium Musicum will present a concert Sunday, April 2, at 8 in All Saints' Church.

The featured works on the program are the Partita in E Major for solo violin by J.S. Bach, performed by Joseph Kovacs, and the Clarinet Concerto by Anton Dimler performed by George Jones. The program will also include tunes and dances by Purcell, Divertimento in F Major (K. 138) by Mozart, and Suite of Old Polish Dances by Panufnik.

Guest Artist Concert Set by Youth Orchestra

The Greater Princeton Youth Orchestra will give a concert Friday, March 31, at 7:30 in

Tickets are $8 for the general public, $7 for people 65 and older and Rutgers faculty and staff, and $3 for Rutgers students. For more information or to charge tickets by phone, call the Rutgers Arts Ticket Office at (201) 932-7511.

NJ Percussion Ensemble In Concert at Richardson

The Chamber Ensemble at Princeton and the Composers Guild of New Jersey will present the New Jersey Percussion Ensemble in a performance of works by three generations of Princeton composers on Sunday, April 2, at 3 in Richardson Auditorium in Alexander Hall.

The concert will include works by Milton Babbitt, Harry Glixer, Reynold Simpson, Alicyn Warren, and Robert Pollock.

The New Jersey Percussion Ensemble has commissioned numerous works in a variety of styles and is known for its meticulously prepared performances. The works to be featured on April 2 will include not only percussion instruments, but also electronically generated sounds, live narration, and slide projection.

The public is invited to attend without charge.

French Baroque Music In Saturday Concert

Le Cercle Francais de Princeton will sponsor a concert of French Baroque music on Saturday at 7:30 in the McAlpin rehearsal room, Woolworth Center, on the Princeton University campus.

The Princeton Baroque Ensemble will perform a cantata for soprano, bass, violin, and continuo by Michel Pignolet de Monteclair, a trio sonata for recorder, oboe, and continuo by Jean-Baptiste Loeillet; a trio sonata for violin, oboe, and continuo by Elisabeth Jacquet de la Guerre; and opera arias and keyboard works by other French Baroque composers.

This group of young professional vocal and instrumental soloists is devoted to performing music of the Baroque repertoire on period instruments and according to the performance practices of the late 17th and early 18th centuries.

Performers include Jane Adas, baroque cello; Stephen Berkelhammer, baroque oboe and recorder; Gavin Black, harpsichord and organ; Michelle Disco, soprano; Stevan Harnad, recorder, Karen Marmer, baroque violin, Gretchen Paxson, baroque violin, and William Riley, bass/baritone.

Admission to the concert is free, but donations will be accepted.

20th Century Flute Music Focus of Rutgers Concert

Flute music of the 20th Century will be the focus of a concert at Rutgers on Friday, March 31, featuring flutist James Scott. The performance begins at 8 p.m. in the Nicholas Music Center of the Rutgers Arts Center, George Street at Route 18, New Brunswick.

Highlights include the premiere of Concerto for Flute, Percussion and 15 Instruments by Anthony Cornicello, who will conduct. The work will be performed by the Janus Ensemble, a student contemporary music group.

Other pieces on the program include Passacaglia for flute alone by Ernst von Dohnanyi; Sonate en Forma de Suite by Jacques Casterede, performed with pianist Samuel Dilworth-Leslie, and Suite en Concert for Flute and Percussion by Andra Jolivet, featuring the Rutgers Percussion Ensemble. Mr. Scott will play a flute duet with Robert Dick, considered the world's leading exponent of extended flute techniques for new music.

Minnesota Orchestra In Concert at Rutgers

The Minnesota Orchestra conducted by Edo de Waart will appear in concert Thursday, March 30, at the State Theater, 19 Livingston Avenue, New Brunswick.

The program, which begins at 8 p.m., will close the 72nd season of Rutgers University Concert Series. The program will include Olivier Messiaen's Chronochromia and Gustav Mahler's Symphony No. 1 in D major.

Tickets are priced at $25, $22, $18, $15 and $12. Discounts are available for persons 63 and older and Rutgers faculty, staff and students.

NJSO Music Director Signs New Contract

Hugh Wolff, music director of the New Jersey Symphony, has renewed his contract with the orchestra.

The new contract begins in the 1989-90 season, Mr. Wolff's fifth with the orchestra, and calls for three seasons, with the third season "mutually agreeable," according to a press release, and a minimum of 14 weeks per season conducting in New Jersey.

Since Mr. Wolff's appointment as music director in September, 1985, the Orchestra has made its most dramatic growth in recent history. In the past four seasons, the NJSO's annual budget has grown from $3.7 million to more than $6 million, and subscribers have grown from 6,000 to 12,000.

The orchestra's artistic successes have spurred plans for the construction of a performing arts center in Newark.

proclaim April as New Jersey Dance Month, as he did last year.

Among the companies featured are Teamwork Dance, Carolyn Dorfman Dance Co., Princeton Ballet, Center Dance Collectiva, Geulah Abrahams Danceworks, Joy Vrooman Sayen, Mercer Dance Ensemble and Susan Tenney and Company. The dance department of Mason Gross School of the Arts, and other colleges will also be represented.

The event is sponsored by the New Jersey Center for the performing Arts. For further information, call (201) 526-6074.

One-Man 'Paul Robeson' To Benefit Scholarships

Stage and television star Avery Brooks will portray Paul Robeson in a special fund raising performance of Paul Robeson Saturday, April 1, at 8 at the State Theatre, 19 Livingston Avenue, New Brunswick.

Proceeds will provide fellowships and scholarships for Rutgers Students in the Educational Opportunity Fund program, a statewide program established to provide students of all ethnic backgrounds who cannot afford college and who lack the traditional criteria for admission, the opportunity to attend college.

Paul Robeson was written by Phillip Hayes Dean and starred James Earl Jones in its original Broadway production 10 years ago. It traces Robeson's life from his undergraduate days at Rutgers, where he was named football All-American in 1917 and 1918, through his brief law career and his rise as an actor to his controversial involvement with Spanish Loyalists and Communism. It also depicts Robeson's battles with racism and an inquisition by the House Committee on Un-American activities.

Mr. Brooks, on leave as an associate professor of theater arts at the Mason Gross School of the Arts at Rutgers, is best known for his portrayal of Hawk in the TV series Spenser: For Hire. He is continuing his role as Hawk in the new ABC series A Man Called Hawk. The first black master of arts graduate in acting and directing at Rutgers, he has workad extensivaly on the stage as actor and director.

Tickets are $7, $15, $24.50 and $35. There is a $5 discount for students on tickets priced above $7. For more information or to charge tickets by phone call (201) 932-7511.

IT'S NEW To Us

Evarything You Need Found at 206 Hardware

"People like hardware stores so much because of the variety of the inventory," believes Mike Stachowicz, owner of 206 Hardware & Home Center in the Montgomery Shopping Center al Routes 206 and 518 "You won't find another store that has so many different things under one roof It's interesting la watch people when they come in. They caa spend a half-hour just looking around It'a fun ta browse."

206 Hardware was opened la 1960 by Mr Stachowicz'a father, John Stachowicz, and it was originally located on Route 206, just across from the airport When the Montgomery Shopping Center opened in 1969, the store moved to its present location

"I was at school then and studying for another vocation," recalls Mr Stachowicz, "but whenever I had any free time, I always worked at the store."

Born and reared in Princeton, he decided to join the business fulltime in 1973 "I was interested in helping people," he remarks, "and thus was a special way to do it Then my father retired in 1978, and I took over the store. We still have a lot of customers who have been with us since the store's beginning, and the area is growing so much that ws have more people all the time.

SERVICE AND SELECTION: "We are the largest hardware store in the area," says Mike Stachowicz, owner of 206 Hardware, located in the Montgomery Shopping Center. "Right now, we're gearing up for spring. People start cleaning house and working on the lawn now," he adds. Staff members, l. to r. are Joe and John Tolin and manager Paul Miller, shown with Mr. Stachowicz.

"I like being in business for myself," he adds "This la much more challenging now than before, however It can defioftely be a seven-day-a-week job

Old-Fashioned. "The basic needs of the consumer are about the sama since we opened," he beheves, "especially plumbing and electrical needs In a town like Princeton, there are a lot of older houses which require hardware items because of the way they were built. Of course, the merchandise expands because of all the new things on the market and in the household.

"We have all the categories," he continues "Electrical, hardware, housewares, etc We really have everything. Our motto is 'It's hera someplace.' I still consider us one of the old-lashioned hardware stores in the area, where nails are sold from bins and screws are not sold in packages It's more fun to dibble and dabble, to choose what you want. People sometimes just want two of something, not a whole package."

Customers come in for a great range of items, reports Mr Stachowicz, but plumbing items seem especially popular "A Saturday never goes by without our helping a dozen or more people with a toilet problem They'll need water balls or ball-cocks, for instance. All our staff is pretty well versed and give customers advice about how to fix things

"We also make a lot of keys," he continues "We duplicate 200 keys a week, and thet'a a conservativa estimate. People always seem to lose their keys

"Among household items, ws have a full line of RubberMaid beth and kitchen products. Another item wa've always done well with is the Weber charcoal grill, and we also have the new Genesis gas grill This has been very successful It is probably one of tha best designed and best made grills around."

Now that spring has officially arrived, people start to think about their lawns and gardens, and Mr Stachowicz reports thet 206 Hardware is ready with a variety of items "Wa are the largest Scott fertilizer dealer in central New Jersey," he says, "and we have a full range of grass seed, as well as vegetable and flower seeds Of course, the gardening tools — rakes, hoses, etc. — are in full supply, too."

Many customers will he relieved to know that the store also carries a variety of remedies to cope with the annual Japanese beetle scourge

"For inside the house," he adds, "people want painting supplies and things for general housecleaning Paint is a big item, and we have a complete range of painting needs, including Martin Senour authentic Colonial Williamsburg paints. We're the only hardware store in the area to have this."

Tremendous Range. 206 Hardware truly has a tremendous range of merchandise It is filled to tha brim with everything from salt and pepper shakers, shower heads and scales to cookware and cutlery and padlocks and pliers Toasters, waffle irons, coffeemakers, blenders, food processors and can openers abound, as do irons, ironing boards and covers, curtain rods, window shades and doormats

Mops, brooms, brushes and buckets of all types and sizes are available, and there is a complete line of saws, shovels and shears, as well as the top-of-the-line Stanley hand tools Black & Decker, FarberWare, Corning Ware, Pyrex and Mr. Coffee are among other popular brand names

Lamp timers, extension cords and smoke alarms are in full supply, and you will find cord, twine, rope and metal chain Gardeners will appreciala the wheelbarrows, watering cans, planters and flower pots, as well as the outdoor citronella candles in different sizes.

Prices cover the gamut from 05 cents for a pound of nails to $500 for a Genesis 2 gas grill, with every conceivable price to hatween Gardening gloves start at $2 50, hoses are $13 95 and up and citronella candles $2 35 and $7 69

Wagner cast iron skillets are $4 95 and up, Slender Blender Cordless hand blenders $44 19 and 18-inch charcoal Weber grills are on sale for $85.

Mr. Stachowicz stresses the store's policy of service and personal attention. "We do all we can to help out the consumer," he says. "One can come here and most likely get an answer to a question. For the past 29 years, we've been known for taking care of our customers, and we have grown because of that."

200 Hardware is open Monday-Friday 9 to 6, Saturday 8 to 5 and Sunday 11 to 2.

"TRY IT - YOU'LL LIKE IT": 'What's a Roli Boli?' you may ask. Visitors to Princeton Forrestal Village are quickly finding out and going back for more. Anthony Felicetta, originator of the special hot rolled, closed sandwich made of fresh French bread dough and a variety of ingredients, and owner of the restaurant also called Roli Boli, is very encouraged about the customers' reaction. "People are coming up to us and saying, 'This is the best thing I've ever had!' It happens all the time, and we have over 90% return customers."

Savory Seodwiches Highlight Roli Boli

"The minute we opened, I knew we were a success," says Anthony Felicetta enthusiastically. "Actually, we had hardly even opened, and people just started coming over and looking at the Boli Bar, where we have all the ingredients set up. They asked what it all was, and before we knew it, we were sold out."

This was back on September 17, 1987, when both Roli Boli, Mr. Felicetta's restaurant, and Princeton Forrestal Village opened. Since then, business has continued to grow. "I'm very optimistic both about Roli Boli and the future of the Village," he adds.

Actually, Roli Bolis are pretty hard to resist, as the lines of people waiting to buy them at the restaurant will attest. The rolled, closed sandwiches made of French bread dough and filled with a variety of ingredients, including cheese, vegetables, sausage, meatballs, seafood, chicken, etc. are baked in a special oven and ready in three minutes.

"I always liked the Italian calzones and Stromboli sandwiches," explains Mr. Felicetta, "but they were on the heavy side, and I thought of trying to better them, make them lighter. Fitness is in style today, and people like lighter cooking. So we took a combination of many items and developed a new concept. It's a freshly made sandwich with light crisp French bread dough, and you can really eat it every day.

"Everything is very fresh," he continues. "That's very important. The dough is made every day, for example. Also, there is a tremendous variety. We have the Seafood Boli with lobster and shrimp, the Munchie Boli with sausage and pepperoni, the Veggie Boli with different vegetables and mozzarella cheese and even a Yuppie Boli. The biggest seller is the Veggie Boli — it's only 317 calories, and without the cheese, even less.

"Also," he adds, "a lot of people enjoy creating their own Boli combinations. They come up with great concoctions. You can really use your imagination. Some people have even asked to have a Boli named after their creation."

Started as Dishwasher

Mr. Felicetta, whose enthusiasm is contagious, was born in Italy, came to the United States when he was six and settled in central New Jersey. He has been in the restaurant business for more than half of his 27 years. "I really grew up in the restaurant business," he recalls. "At 13, I started washing dishes in an Italian restaurant. I was ambitious, and soon I began making pizzas. I always knew this would be the line of work I wanted to be in. Later I studied hotel and restaurant management in college and then worked in the food and beverage department in a hotel chain and was also a consultant.

"I was 22 when I had my first partnership, and then my partners and I opened a restaurant in South Jersey in 1985. I've always been very focused and knew what I wanted. In addition, I've been involved in real estate, and that really helped to open Roli Boli.

"Also, I'm a person who doesn't like to wait," he smiles. "I like to make things happen. I'm a doer. I like the challenge. This is long hours and hard work, but for me, it's a pleasure to wake up in the morning. I like to think I've created my own niche, and I'm really excited about it. It's terrific to start something new and make it a success."

Roli Boli has been such a success that last June Mr. Felicetta opened another Roli Boli in Bridgewater, N.J., and it has been tremendously popular. Now, he is thinking of developing more of these restaurants. "I'm asked all the time to expand," he explains, "and I'm in the process of franchising. I hadn't thought of doing this originally, but now we're emphasizing it. We've been contacted by so many people — a lot from out of state, even from Canada, and there has been interest from as far away as Seattle, North Dakota and a lot from Florida.

"Within the next year, I'll expect to have some new Roli Bolis. I'll still own the name and idea, and I'll be very choosy about franchising. They will have to be very qualified and want to make a success of the business. They must take pride in it, in what they do and not be afraid of hard work.

"My brother, Frank Felicetta, is my partner, and our franchise program is definitely under way. People interested in it can call us at (201) 871-0370.

Roli Bolis range in price from $3.10 to $4.49, and there is a variety of side dishes, such as the restaurant's special curly fries, onion rings, mozzarella sticks, fried breaded ravioli and fried breaded zucchini, all from $1.39 to $2.99. Soda, tea and coffee, lemonade and mineral water are also available.

Mr. Felicetta adds that many customers take the Bolis home and freeze them. They can be heated in five or six minutes in a toaster oven at 350°.

"The product itself sets us apart," comments Mr. Felicetta. "We concentrate on healthfulness, freshness and variety. But we also offer service, service, service! People want to come back here not just for the food, but for the friendly atmosphere. My staff has been with me since we opened, and they've gotten to know all the customers. I like to have a sort of old-fashioned feeling here, the way it used to be.

"Also," he says with a smile, "I've always enjoyed people. I like to be with them. I like to see them day to day and see their reaction to the food. It's really a pleasure to give people something they enjoy and that makes them happy."

Roli Boli is open for lunch and dinner, both sit down and take out, Monday-Saturday 11 to 7, Thursday and Friday until 9 and Sunday 12 to 5.

Four easy steps

Now you can have a thick, green Scotts lawn—and save money—without worrying about which product to choose or when to apply it. All you have to do is follow the Scotts Annual Program one step at a time.

...and results are guaranteed!

Early Spring (February-April) | Late Spring (April-June) | Summer (June-August) | Fall (August-November)

Have you used a lawn service? Ask yourself...

- Was it worth the extra money?
- Did you get the results you expected?
- Tired of wasting money on treatments that are too early or too late?
- Frustrated with making phone calls for repeat treatments to "get it right"?
- Couldn't you do it better for less with Scotts?

Half the cost

Why pay a lawn service $125, $150 or more to treat a 5,000 sq. ft. lawn... when you can do it yourself with Scotts for about half the cost! Just use the 4-Step Annual Program! It's the money-saving way to have a beautiful, lush-looking lawn from spring to fall. And Scotts guarantees you'll be satisfied with results...or your money back in full.

Children's Art Workshops Due at the Arts Council

Two ten-week art workshop series for children in grades 1 through 5 will be offered at the Arts Council this spring.

Children's Design Workshop will be held Monday afternoons from 4:30 to 5:45 for grades 1 to 3. It will begin April 10. Emphasis will be on creative problem-solving in visual design.

Children's Drawing Workshop will take place Tuesday afternoons from 4:30 to 5:45 for grades 3 to 5, beginning April 11. The exploration of a variety of both traditional and non-traditional drawing techniques to strengthen skills and foster imagination will be emphasized. This is recommended for children requiring a more rigorous drawing class.

Class sizes are limited to ten. To register, call Susan Kriegman at 275-6553 before April 3.

'Fantasy in Art' Lecture At Mercer County College

A slide lecture on "The History of Fantasy in Art" will be given by Mel Leipzig, artist, art lecturer and professor of art at Mercer County Community College on Tuesday at 11:15 a.m. in Room 110 of the Audio Visual Building on the college's West Windsor campus. The event is free and open to the public.

Prof. Leipzig will discuss the use of fantasy in art through ancient, medieval and modern times. The work of earlier artists such as Bosch, Bruegel and Blake, as well as the modern artists Gaudi, Chagall and Klee, will be covered. The influence of Freudian psychology on Dali, Miro and Magritte will also be explored.

The recipient of a Fulbright Grant and the Governor's Purchase Prize Award, Mr. Leipzig's paintings and woodcuts are in the New Jersey State Museum, the Cooper-Hewitt Museum and the White House Collection.

This lecture is part of Mercer County Community College's Distinguished Lecturer Series. For more information, call 586-4800, extension 350.

"THREE GRACES," by Susan Wides, is one of 66 photographs in The Squibb Gallery's exhibition, "Fictive Strategies: Actuality and Originality in Contemporary Photograph." The exhibition ends on April 2.

Exhibits

"Of Paper · On Paper," a display of handmade paper and prints by Anita Benarde, will open April 8 at AT&T's Corporate Education Center Gallery, Carter Road, Hopewell. The opening reception is scheduled for April 14 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. and is open to the public.

Ms. Benarde has illustrated many children's books and magazine and newspaper articles. Her background also includes stage sets and interior design. Her paintings and prints are found in both corporate and private collections, including the State of New Jersey Division of Taxation in Trenton, the Israeli and Turkish Consulates in New York, Response Analysis in Princeton and Sara Reid Designs in Long Valley.

AT&T's Corporate Education Center Gallery is open in the public from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on weekdays, and 1 to 4 on weekends. This exhibit will continue through May 18.

An exhibit of oil paintings and works on paper by Linda Butti will be held at the University League Gallery from April 2 to 28. Her work, executed in diptych and triptych formats, concentrates on semi-abstract and landscape themes.

An opening for the show will be held Sunday, April 2, from 2 to 5 p.m.

Gallery at Palmer Square has scheduled a show of original watercolors by Pat Lusk from April 29 through May 27.

The artist, a member of Excellence in the South Carolina Watercolor Society, received a BFA in painting from the University of South Carolina.

A reception will be held Saturday, April 29, from 1 to 4 p.m.

Princeton Tigers Stun Georgetown, Oddsmakers, Even Themselves

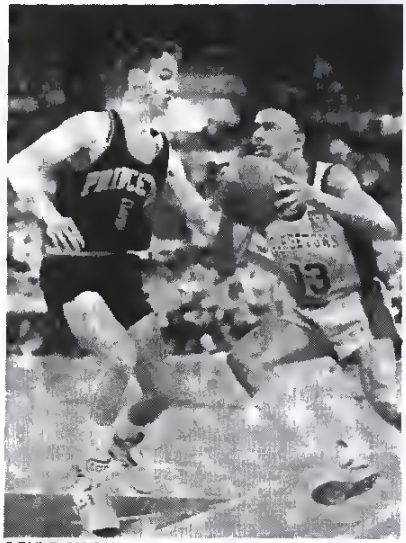
"So the last will be first, and the first will be last."
Matthew 20 16

What a game Unforgettable. The Tigers came thisclose.

Rarely has a team in defeat managed to capture the imagination of the basketball world the way the Princeton Tigers did last week in outplaying but ultimately losing, 50-49, to highly-favored Georgetown.

For this first-round contest in the East division of the NCAA Basketball Championship at Providence, R.I., Georgetown, at the top of its game and seeded No.1, was a prohibitive 22-point favorite. The Tigers were last, seeded 16th.

In fact, Princeton's chances were held to such low esteem that a national paper had listed the odds against Princeton at one billion to one. Cracked Tiger coach Pete Carril, "I think that refers to the the entire tournament; to beat Georgetown it's only 400 million to one."



DOYLE ON SMITH: Princeton's Jerry Doyle and the rest of the Tiger basketball team frustrated Georgetown's high-scoring guard Charles Smith, limiting Smith to four points. Tigers, however, suffered a heart-rending, 50-49, loss to the top-seeded Hoyas in their first-round NCAA East Division game in Providence, R.I.

SPORTS

So much for the oddsmakers. When Princeton's Jerry Doyle scored the first basket of the second half, the Tigers led by 10. With 15 seconds left, Princeton — trailing by one — had possession and the chance to engineer one of the biggest upsets in the 52-year history of the tournament.

The crowd of 12,000 in the Providence Civic Center roared to anticipation as the Tigers worked a screen for Bob Scrabis. His 18-footer was swatted away by the Hoya's 6-10 freshman center, Alonzo Mourning, who had blocked 150 shots this season. The Tigers had one last chance when Georgetown lost possession in the ensuing scramble for the loose ball.

With one tick left on the clock, Princeton's Matt Lapin inbounded to Kit Mueller who turned and let fly a long-distance bomb but Mourning, whose second-half play saved the Hoyas, managed to get a piece of that shot, too.

Princeton had wanted to stay close to Georgetown and not be embarrassed. The Hoyas entered the game with a 26-4 record and had just won the Big East Tournament by defeating Syracuse. Their outstanding point guard, Charles Smith, was named the Big East's Player of the Year.

But after Princeton had almost scored its miracle upset, the Tigers wanted more. They wanted the win. Matt Lapin spoke for all the team when he said, "It's a hollow feeling. You feel good but it hurts. It really hurts." Lapin had 12 of Princeton's 49 points.

Positive Results. As much as it hurt, the defeat will most certainly take its place in the Princeton pantheon of memorable achievements — on the same level as the Bradley-led epic Tiger loss to Cazzie Russell's Michigan team.

More important, the game had these positive results. It solidified the reputation of Carril as one of the top college coaches in the country. For his ability to take what players he has and to mold them into a team that can compete with anyone, Carril is probably the best in the country.

For his 22d year at Princeton, Carril did it with one senior — Bob Scrabis — two freshmen and two sophomores. A survey published in the Sunday New York Times that had been conducted before the game asked, "Who is the Best Coach in College Basketball?" Carril finished second among 62 replies with seven votes. Ironically, he was tied with Georgetown's John Thompson. Indiana's Bobby Knight was the clear winner with 19.

Carril and the Tigers have restored respectability to the Ivy League. Never has a 16th seed defeated a top-seeded team or come as close as Princeton.

Scrabis 4th In Scoring

When forward Bob Scrabis scored 15 points against Georgetown, the senior captain of the Tiger basketball team ended his career with 1,365 points, to move up to fourth on the all-time Tiger scoring list. He is the 17th player to score more than 1,000 points for the Orange and Black.

On top of the list by a wide margin is Bill Bradley '65, with 2,503 points. Pete Campbell '62 is second with 1,451, followed by Craig Robinson '83 with 1,441. After Scrabis' 1,365, Geoff Petrie '70 rounds out the top five with 1,321.

Scrabis began his last season with the Tigers with 975 points. He is a graduate of Red Bank Catholic High School where he set a new school scoring mark of 1,186 points as a three-year starter.

There were grumblings about the Ivy League and rumors that the NCAA officials would lift the Ivies' automatic berth in the tournament next year. When asked if he thought the Ivy League should still get an automatic bid, Thompson replied, "After this game, maybe they ought to get two bids."

"To say that Princeton deserved to win is a giant understatement."

Near Perfect Game. In almost defeating the Hoyas, Princeton played a near perfect game, much like Villanova did in 1985 when it upset favored Georgetown by two points in the 1985 NCAA championship game.

Consider the Tigers held Georgetown to its lowest point total of the year (50) and its lowest first-half total (21). They forced the Hoyas to turn the ball over 13 times; held Smith, who would score 34 points in a second-round victory over Notre Dame, to four points on a 2-for-12 performance, and held Mourning to six first-half points.

Princeton, in turn, worked the ball around so effectively that 15 of its 21 baskets were layups, the majority coming off backdoor plays, a hallmark of the Tigers. "We could see they were frustrated the way we played," recalled Scrabis.

In short, this was a textbook performance by the Tigers, one that should become part of every coach's video file. "Usually after a game, the coach will point out things that we did wrong," commented Scrabis. Tonight, he didn't say anything negative. He said we played our best."

The one Hoya the Tigers were unable to stymie for the entire game was Mourning,

See if you can answer this question .. There'sa man who was once voted the Most Valuable Player to the NCAA basketball tournament — and now he'sa United States Senator .. Who is he? .. Answer is Bill Bradley who was the MVP of the 1965 NCAA tourney when he played for Princeton in the Final Four that year .. Today, Bradley is a U.S. Senator from New Jersey.

I bet you didn't know that Blue Cross • Blue Shield's Major Medical coverages terminate at age 65.

Surprisingly, one of sports' most famous teams has a nickname that is gramatically wrong .. What team is that? .. It's the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League .. The usual plural of "leaf" is "leaves" — not "leafs" — so they should really be the Toronto "Maple Leaves" instead of "Maple Leafs".

Here's an oddity .. There are some sports in which the ball is inbounds when it hits the sideline — and there are other sports in which the ball is out-of-bounds when it hits that line .. The ball is "in" when it hits the line to baseball and tennis — and it's "out" when it hits the line to basketball and football.

who came back to score 15 of his 21 points in the second half. He added 13 rebounds and seven blocked shots.

After Princeton had taken its biggest lead at the start of the second half, Georgetown chipped away and fashioned an 18-6 spurt to take its first lead at 39-37. The game was tied at 43, 45, 47 and 49 as it neared its dramatic finish. With 23 seconds left, Mourning was fouled and made one of two shots, which proved to be the game-winner.

Scrabis grabbed the rebound of the missed second shot, as the Tigers worked the ball to center court before calling time and setting up what it hoped to be the winning shot. It was not to be — but still the last had finished first.

Baseball Opener Friday; Tigers 8-5-1 In Florida

Following a successful 14-game spring schedule in Florida, the Princeton University baseball team will open its 25-game northern schedule on Friday when it hosts Hartford at 3 at Clarke Field. The Tigers will be at Lehigh on Tuesday.

Although coach Tom O'Connell's squad began its eighth season at a disadvantage by starting a month later than most of its southern opponents, it got off to a solid start by winning seven of its first nine.

The final 8-5-1 mark would have been better had not the Tigers tailed off at the end, losing three of their last five. The team ended its season Sunday by losing a double-header to Allegheny College (Pa.), 12-8 and 4-3.

In a double-header on Saturday, the Tigers defeated area rival Trenton State College, 9-6, in the morning and then blew a 4-0 lead against Florida State before settling for a 6-6 tie.

Against Trenton, co-captain Jeff Barton homered for Princeton and sophomore catcher Scott Hayes had two hits and drove in three runs for Princeton. Tiger first baseman Bob Gralewski also connected for a pair of hits and drove in a run and scored two.

After Trenton State had tied the game at 3 in the fourth inning, Princeton scored a single run in the bottom of the same inning and broke the game open with a four-run seventh inning. Freshman Kevin Butterfield, who went 7⅔ innings, giving up nine hits including three each by Trenton's Mark Rubino and John Clayton, got the win.

The loss was the first for Trenton State in four starts.

Brian McAllister and Sean Sullivan each rapped three hits in Princeton's standoff against Florida Atlantic. After the Tigers had taken a 4-0 lead, Florida scored single runs in the seventh and eighth innings and two in the ninth to tie it. Tiger reliefer Brian Zirlin came in the ninth to get the final two outs.

The game was called at the end of 11 innings after neither team was able to score. Princeton had 13 hits and four errors, while Florida banged out 15 hits and had two errors. Co-captain Mike Lutz had a triple for Princeton.

Earlier, Princeton split two games with St. Thomas University. On Friday, Lutz rapped a triple, double and two singles in four appearances for the Tigers. However, his effort with the bat was erased by a seven-run St. Thomas rally in the sixth, as St. Thomas prevailed to win its tenth, 10-5. Joe Sawyer was tagged with the loss.

In the Tigers' first meeting with St. Thomas, Lutz again had four hits but this time he received a lot of help. Matt Noone and Ed Hockenbury each stroked three hits as the Tigers exploded for 21 hits and scored in every inning but one in posting a 14-3 win. Hockenbury counted the game's only homer among his three hits. Brad Remig and Sullivan each drove in three runs, as junior Matt Noone (2-0) picked up the easy win.

The same day, Princeton defeated Jersey City, 10-4, behind the six-hit pitching of sophomore Rob Feder.

Second baseman Dan Palmer homered to spark a five-run, second-inning outburst by the Tigers and teammates Remig, McAllister, Sullivan and Gralewski each had two hits and Lutz had two RBIs.

The Tigers began the week with a 15-6 victory over Mercy College and a 10-6 loss to Nova College.

The win over Mercy was a slugfest, 20 hits, seven runs in the first inning, four hits by Remig including a homer and triple, three each by Palmer and Lutz, a homer and four RBIs by Barton and two hits and 3 RBIs by Scott Hayes.

Nova (16-7) knocked out Tiger starter Jason Scott with six runs in the second en route to its win. Reliefers Steve Burns and Joe Chifford then limited Nova to three single runs over the next five innings. First baseman Gralewski homered in going 2-for-2 for the Tigers and Sullivan also had two of Princeton's 10 hits.

Tiger Laxman Win Pair For Third Win in a Row

After an opening loss to Rutgers, coach Bill Tierney's Princeton University lacrosse team has come on to win its next three.

Last week the Tigers defeated New Hampshire, 14-10, and routed Georgetown, 16-2, to raise their record to 3-1. In games next week, Princeton will be at perennial power, Johns Hopkins for a Saturday contest at 2 and then travel to Villanova next Wednesday, March 29, for an evening game starting at 7.

Neither New Hampshire nor an hour's delay in the second half because of a thunderstorm could keep the Tigers from the completion of their triumph Saturday over the visiting Big Green laxmen. The Tigers led 7-2 at halftime.

Sophomore Andy Moe and junior John Kenny led Princeton's attack with three goals each. Chris McHugh and freshman Justin Tortolani each scored twice for the Tigers while Paul Dibello, Will Hartley, Highley Thompson and Dave Singer added single tallies. Mark Botnicki and Jeff Mechura combined for seven of the losers' goals. Princeton outshot the visitors, 42-31.

Three days earlier, the Tigers roughed up Georgetown at Kehoe Field in Washington, D.C., as they took charge with a 7-0 lead at halftime. Princeton had outshot the Hoyas, 68-28.

Tortolani with four goals and Moe and Hartley with three each were the big guns for the Tigers. Kenny added one goal and four assists.

Also scoring for Princeton were Singer, Bob Kent and freshmen Ed Calkins, Mike Manza and and Dave Rotheoberg. John Wright and Jim Ardrey combined for 11 saves in goals for the Tigers, Wright turning back nine shots. Georgetown goalie Jim Kenny suffered a leg injury in the first period and gave way to backups Tim Evans and Mark Heckel. The three together had 20 saves.

New Coach, New Field For PHS Baseball Team

After a disastrous season last year, the Princeton High School baseball team greets this spring with a new coach and the return of its own field.

Lawrence Mansier, an English teacher at the high school who claims baseball was pretty much his life until he suffered an attack of polio, has taken over the coaching reins from Ed Beacham.

Although the effects of the disease still force Mansier to walk with the aid of crutches, it has not dampened his spirit nor been able to curb a mischievous sense of humor. Yes, he said, he was looking forward to his first crack as a head coach at high school.

"I have a good baseball background and in teaching, too. I work with kids, I like kids. If I can handle two decades of teaching," he smiled, "I can handle one year of coaching."

As for goals, he admitted, "You like to win every one you can. I wouldn't want to say I am building for the future. We do feel we've got something started here — if we keep the freshmen and sophomores coming.

"Of course, I'm optimistic every spring. I haven't lost one yet." And again the smile broke across his face.

In recent years, confronted with an ever-shrinking school population, numbers have been a problem for PHS coaches. Mansier reported that he has a nucleus of about nine players coming back. There are about 14 on the varsity and some 15 sophomores on the squad. "We're hoping with those numbers we will be able to carry a full junior varsity and freshman team."

NEW PHS BASEBALL COACH: Lawrence Mansier, an English teacher at Princeton High, is the new coach of the Little Tiger baseball team.

Last year, Beacham and the Little Tigers were forced to play the entire season without a home field when their reconditioned and resurfaced field behind the Valley Road School Building was deemed by school officials not to have enough grass and therefore not to be playable.

At the time, Beacham said, "I don't want to use having no home field as an excuse if we get off to a bad start. On the other hand, down deep, if we do, you have to think it's possible that was the reason." It was a factor.

PHS won its opening game against Princeton Day School but then did not win again until 18 games later, struggling to a dismal 2-19 record.

So Mansier begins with a plus in a home field and with the return of some tested players, including senior outfielder Tim Middleton, and senior pitcher Jason Plaks. Among the returning juniors are Lou Estrada, who played mostly at third last year but who is, says Mansier, "a natural who will and can play anywhere," catcher Russ Levine; burly Tom Shockley, "a real horse," says Mansier, who will also do some pitching; and outfielder Danny Reed. Sophomore Scott Petrone will anchor the infield at short.

Two other sophomore outfielders coming up are Matt Baum and Chris Long. Another newcomer is senior Reuben Steiger, who came out late, is big, and will probably play at third and do some pitching.

Pitching a Key. How far PHS can rebound this year will depend in large part on the caliber of the pitching Mansier receives. "They say pitching is 75 percent of the game, and in high school it is probably even more," commented Mansier. He added that Beacham told him the group coming back was best at fielding and hitting. "If we can put some pitching with that we could have a good season."

At the moment, Estrada, who was 1-4 last year (earning one of Princeton's two wins), and Plaks (0-1) head the list of starters on the mound. Junior Chris Kagay, who was a relief pitcher last year, has decided to devote his junior year to being editor of the school newspaper.

Until this week, Mansier said, he has been working on fundamentals. There has been no infield practice. He will get a better look at what he has following three scrimmages with New Brunswick, Freehold and Hun School.

Said he: "I like to emphasize running. It gets the other side off balance. If you have a running team, you have a winning team."

What has impressed him has been the enthusiasm of the freshmen and sophomores, said Mansier. "No one is standing around. I always hated that when I was playing. They seem to enjoy being out here. If fact, some of them are so enthusiastic when they first start out, they're actually a little dangerous."

Mansier got his start playing baseball for Highland Park High School. He attended Rutgers University where he was an outfielder and pitcher. "I also played a lot of amateur ball," he recalled.

"I was in two leagues and had my own team. Some of the guys were in their early 40s and some were former minor league players. It was some good stuff." All hardball. Slow pitch was just starting then, Mansier said.

"Baseball was a large part of my life. I'd say I was playing in six or seven games a week."

The baseball continued in the Army while he was stationed in Korea. Recalled Mansier: "I was playing one day. The next day I felt a neck pain. The next day I was in a coma. The next day I was in an iron lung."

He spent almost two years in an army hospital. "It was quite an experience. I met a wonderful lot of nice people. You take what you get and make the most of it."

Mansier has two assistants. Randy Morrison, a guidance teacher in the Trenton school system, is working with the freshmen team. Jason Petrone, a 1984 PHS graduate who played baseball, football and basketball for the Little Tigers and is attending Trenton State College, is working with Mansier and has been "very helpful."

Mansier said that he is still looking for a third assistant to coach the jayvees.

Leschly to Lead PHS In Tennis This Year

Stig Leschly and Richard Webb have graduated from the Princeton High tennis team that finished 19-6 last year, but don't feel sorry for coach Joe Diefenbach.

coaching reins in 1971 and who won his 200th match midway in the '87 season, still has one Leschly left. Junior Nick Leschly, who won all 21 of his team matches last year (his only setback coming in the State singles championships) returns as the last of the four Leschly brothers who have left behind a remarkable record of achievement at PHS.

Senior Marc Glogoff, a former doubles player, and junior Dan Horowitz will battle each other for the other singles position and provide the Little Tigers their greatest strength.

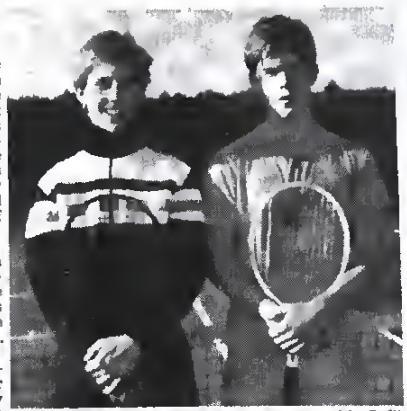
Seniors David Williams (17-3) and Seth Socolow and junior Damon Ross, all with varsity experience, junior Matt Gonda and freshmen Brent Breithaupt and George Khalaf are the leading contenders for the doubles teams that Diefenbach is in the process of selecting prior to the team's opener Tuesday, April 4, against Hopewell Valley.

"Khalaf looks pretty good and has played in some tournaments," observed Diefenbach. "We will be strong at singles as far as Mercer County is concerned but I would like to have some good doubles players, too," he added. "Basically, we've got quite a few players back from last year and a lot have had varsity experience."

All that places the Little Tigers in a familiar position: the team to beat in Mercer County, although West Windsor and Hopewell have come up to challenge — and successfully on occasion — Princeton's preeminent role.

Last year, PHS won the Colonial Valley championship but was eliminated in the second round of the Central Jersey State tournament by Holmdel — primarily, recalled Diefenbach, "because Stig had to miss the match because of a knee operation."

As for this year, Diefenbach, a phys. ed. teacher at the high school, is reluctant to make any hard predictions other than to comment, "It should be an interesting year."



LITTLE TIGER NETMEN: Junior Nick Leschly (left), 21-0 last year, and doubles player David Williams (17-3), will help lead the Princeton High tennis team this spring.

Outside Mercer County, Moorestown is viewed as Princeton's chief tormentor. Moorestown is led by Mike Sell, ranked number one in his age bracket in the Middle States area and the top player in New Jersey tournaments.

"We play them May 19. I've got it set in my head already," said Leschly, who looks forward in the showdown.

Another Banner Year For Hun School Laxmen?

"It looks pretty good," said Hun School lacrosse coach Dave Faus last week, the day before he and the Red Raiders were to leave for a week of spring practice in Hilton Head, S.C.

"We're in a situation where we have a pretty good jayvee team which has gone 21-0 the last two years and we are seeing some of the fruits of that program now," said Faus.

Actually, the results of that program may have been realized last year when Faus, a former player at Hun, guided the Raiders to an outstanding 15-2 record, the best by far in his five years as head coach.

After winning its first eight in a row, Hun lost to Voorhees for its only league loss and then won seven more before bowing to Blair Academy in the prep school State tournament, a school it had defeated in its opening game of the season.

From that squad, Faus lost only three starters: Paul Greco and co-captains Hardy Roddy, its leading scorer, and Robert Siegel. All three are now playing college lacrosse, Faus reported.

For his sixth season, Faus welcomes back some familiar faces. On defense are Martin Conneen, one of the three team captains, and Chris Scartata, a three-year starter. Junior P.J. Michaud is back for the third year as goalie.

Midfielders returning include Paul Welykoridko, another team captain, and junior George Cole, who has been playing since his freshman year. Up from that undefeated jayvee squad is senior Rene Arsenault. Joe Tinervin is a junior transfer student from the San Francisco area who learned the sport in league play in Westfield, one of the lacrosse hot spots in the State.

Hun is also solid at attack, Faus stated, where he has three starters back: juniors Dale Beach and Scott Gordon and Geri Poblete, who came on strong at the end of last season and is the third team captain.

Still others that Faus can turn to include seniors Duncan Dixon, Ben Metcalf and Ed Freeman and Mike Brenna. Todd Coyer, who quarterbacked the Hun football team as a freshman, looks good, says Faus, and as does junior Ed Harrigan up from the jayvee. "We'll try to fit him in some place," said Faus of Harrigan.

"Optimistically, we are looking very strong again," agreed Faus, "but we will have to play a more team-oriented game. Roddy was our big scorer last year, I would like to see us spead it out a little more."

Faus also described the schedule as "more demanding" with the addition of Pingry, Montclair-Kimberley and Academy of New Church. He ended his summary of the team's outlook this spring on a cautionary note: "We're looking good — but we'll see what happens."

At Hilton Head, Hun will play four games. Ten other teams from the New England area and Maryland, which Faus described as "very competitive," will join Hun. The only other team from New Jersey, he said, is Dwight-Englewood.

Hun opens its season next Friday, March 3, against Academy of New Church in Bryn Athyn, Pa.

PHS LACROSSE COACHES: Jim Harris (left) starts his second year as head coach of the Princeton High boys' lacrosse team. He will be assisted by newcomer Howard Rubenstein.

PHS Lacrosse Team Goal To Make State Tourney

Although the start of the season is still a dozen days away, Princeton High lacrosse coach Jim Harris states right off that his main goal is to see if the Little Tigers can make the States this year. "It's a tall order," acknowledged Harris, who is starting his second full year as head coach. "It's a little bit of a long shot, but it's there — if we play well."

What makes it a long shot for the Blue and White is that the team is coming off a poor season last year, when Harris took over the coaching reins from Bobby Campbell, after having served two years as his assistant.

Last spring the Little Tigers won just two games, defeating town rival Princeton Day School and edging Moravian Academy by a goal in overtime.

Harris acknowledged that, in the past, attitude has been a problem. "They (the players) are used to doing it one way and it's tough to knock it out of them. We were in a lot of games last year for two or three quarters and then we would seem to tire. I'll tell you one thing: we are definitely going to be in condition this year."

This year the squad is smaller at 36. There are fewer jayvees and the varsity is smaller than last year. "We have a problem with depth," agreed Harris. There are no senior midfielders ... "which is nice for the future but it is always nice to have a senior leader in there," said Harris.

Despite the liabilities, Harris has too much raw talent not to be cautiously optimistic about this season. "I know we can win more games than we did last year. We have the guys who can do it. It is up to them."

His squad did well, Harris reported, in a first scrimmage last week against Princeton Day School. "We had a chance to see a lot of people," he said. "I felt we improved throughout the scrimmage. I saw some positive signs. So far, I am not pleased with our stickwork but our field knowledge is good."

The Little Tigers have two more scrimmages against Conestoga High School (Pa.) at Princeton University's Finney Field and against West Morris High on Thursday before opening their season at home against South Kent next Monday, April 3. They will visit perennial State power Westfield the following day and then host George School in a busy start.

"I would certainly like to be 3-0 — and we could be with some light shining down on us," smiled Harris, "but I expect to be 2-1. The big test is Westfield. It's early in the season but it's good in a sense because we will know where we have to go." Last year, Westfield handled PHS, 12-2, in its opener.

Experienced Players Back. Two of last year's top players, Thad Reynolds, who led the team in scoring with 15 goals, and goalie Neil Reeves, are still in school but are fifth-year seniors and ineligible to play.

Nonetheless, Harris still has a number of fine players returning, including seniors Rob Buzzard, Mitchell Jensen, Jeff Hirsch, and Brett Hoebel. Juniors with experience returning are Anthony White, Amman Pepe, Julian Craig, Mike Precheur, Jeff Stovall, Andre Pinard, and Hunter Parsons. Sophomores back are goalie Ryan Branon, middy Danny Petrecca and Tad Kinchla. As a freshman, Kinchla was second in scoring for the Little Tigers last year with nine goals.

Early on, Harris reported, Kinchla and Hoebel have looked good at attack, Buzzard and Zullo at defense, and White at midfield. Zullo, who missed playing last year, "will do a fine job at defense," predicted Harris. "He's still learning but he is an excellent athlete and has a great attitude."

Harris also feels he is still learning as a coach. "I went to a lot of clinics," he stated, "and I have a little more confidence in myself as a coach. I think my strong suit is seeing how other people make mistakes and offering corrections. I'm not strong in planning or organization."

Harris is in charge of the offense, which represents another challenge because, as a Princeton High player in 1977-78-79 with his twin brother, Cal, and for two years at Ohio Wesleyan, he played defense. His older brothers, Bart, a 1972 PHS graduate, and Nate (PHS '76) were also defensemen, "so it runs in the family," said Harris.

Harris is being assisted this year by Howie Rubenstein, who this winter coached the first-ever PHS varsity ice hockey team. Rubenstein will work with the defense and goalies.

A graduate of Cortland State College in N.Y., where he played goalie for two years, Rubenstein coached the sport in a high school in the Buffalo area before coming to New Jersey as a physical education teacher.

Basketball Classic Set To Aid Cerebral Palsy

Firm Designs Building For Squibb Employees

The Hillier Group architectural firm has completed work on a 65,000-square-foot employee services building for the Squibb Corporation campus in New Brunswick

The building consolidates employee services, including a 550-seat dining room, employee store and credit union, which ware previously spread out oo the site There are a number of multi-purpose meeting rooms and office space on the second floor

The building has been designed with an inside mall, focusing on a skylit atrium which penetrates to the pedestrian "street" below Outside, a garden area will provide a setting for outdoor dining, and the parking area will be modified for better traffic flow and safety The building serves as a gateway from Route 1 to other facilities on site

The Hillier Group began work on the employee services building in 1985. Two years later, the firm was asked to design a master plan for expansion of Squibb's corporate headquarters in Lawrenceville The master plan, which incorporates personnel growth and space projections for each division at Lawrenceville, will serve as a "road map" for development of the site well into the 1990's.

Contributions to N.J.C.F. To Help Save Open Space

The New Jersey Conservation Foundation (NJCF) has received contributions of $2,000 each from the Squibb Corporation, Princeton, and from Horizon Bank, Morristown, the holding company for Princeton Bank.

The contributions will help the private, nonprofit organization protect more open-space lands for the benefit of all the Garden State's residents.

The land trust has saved hundreds of thousands of acres throughout New Jersey by buying open space properties and holding them in trust for public open space agencies It also accepts donations of land for permanent protection in their natural state, targeting areas unsuitable for development, such as farmland, pinelands, coastal lands and freshwater wetlands.

NJCF began its work 29 years ago by helping to create the Great Swamp National Wildlife Refuge in Morris County More information about the organization can be obtained by writing to 300 Mendham Road, Morristown, 07960.

GRAND OPENING: Tod Peyton, right, of Peyton Associates, and Sales Manager Berit Mershall, second from right, join three other Peyton associates to celebrate the opening of an on-site sales office at Governors Lane, a townhouse community off Terhune Road. The office is open every day from noon to 4.

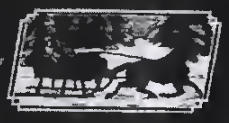
A VERY Special PLACE

A Homesite & A Resort
Until now, only existed in your dreams.

A place where you can live high on the mountain top, or next to a lake

A place where you can enjoy every winter sport imaginable; downhill and cross country skiing, moonlight sleigh rides, snow mobiling, ice skating or just watching an incredibly beautiful snowfall.



A place where Arnold Palmer and The Palmer Course Design Company are designing a championship golf course.

A place where you can dine at the top of a mountain, at a gourmet restaurant that is elegant beyond belief with a view only nature can provide. A place where you can dance the night away, surrounded by the stars.

NOTICE

In compliance with a ruling of the State Supreme Court, all newspapers must ascertain that employment ads do not discriminate between sexes.

For example, titles such as "Salesman," "Nurse" and "Girl Friday" should be replaced respectively, by "Salesperson," "Nurse (M/F)" and "General Office Work M/F". TOWN TOPICS has a copy of the Division of Civil Rights booklet, "A Guide for Employers to the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination," and will provide assistance in the wording of all such ads upon request. Advertisers' cooperation is sought in meeting the requirements of the law.

Rainbow Hill Road
New Listing

A dream come true — If you have hoped to find a beautiful old colonial farmhouse, carefully restored, with the charm of yesteryear and the amenities of today. On a hill in Hunterdon County, with a view, almost six acres with picturesque barn and pastures create a serene pastoral setting for this picture-perfect house, built about 1740. The wide center hall opens to the front parlor, gracious living/family room and formal dining room, each with handsome fireplace. The spacious country kitchen with its walk-in fireplace, beamed ceiling and dining area is the heart of the house. Adjoining is the original summer kitchen with a second walk-in fireplace, brick floor, stone wall, kitchenette and bath. Upstairs the master bedroom with fireplace, bath, sitting room/bedroom, three family bedrooms and hall bath. The delightful decor of white walls with woodwork of muted colors, wide pine floor boards and six fireplaces are only a few of the features that add charm and appeal to this very special house.

SPRING BEAUTIES

Library Place

This handsome stone manor house on this historic western street is one of the limited number of truly fine older houses in Princeton. It offers a magnificent living room, study, formal dining room, kitchen, recreation room, 5 bedrooms, 3½ baths and desirable 5-room apartment over detached 3-car garage. $1,200,000

Lawrenceville Road

Magnificent stone Colonial, circa 1760 on the old King's Highway, four miles from Princeton in Lawrence Township. Handcrafted panelled doors, brass locks, wide floor boards, period moldings, eight fireplaces and high ceilings add distinction and charm to the spacious rooms and create an elegant ambiance for entertaining or gracious family living. $1,250,000

Ridgeview Road

A country house — which enjoys the seclusion and serenity of 4½ beautiful acres in this desirable area of Princeton. Just minutes from town, it also enjoys a sophisticated elegance. Luxurious master suite on first floor. Three rooms and two baths on second. Panelled studio, beautiful grounds with pool. $925,000

Brookstone Drive

So near — you can use the bicycle path for a trip to tow. So far — you can skate in the winter and fish in the summer in your own pond. This handsome multi-level house in western Princeton has six bedrooms and three baths with the flexibility to accommodate different lifestyles. Family room with second fireplace and half bath. $675,000

Lawrenceville

You won't be able to resist the fabulous great room with its walls of cypress and brick, fireplace with raised hearth, wet bar and state-of-the-art media center. The house is an exceptional American Four Square in the historic district of the Village. Thoughtful custom details and careful maintenance combine to create a perfect home. $575,000

Lilac Lane

This gracious home is now on a new cul-de-sac in one of western Princeton's most desired locations. Designed for family living, its living areas include a spectacular all-purpose room that lends itself to recreation and entertaining. On the second floor — the master suite with "his" and "her" baths, three family bedrooms and bath. $835,000

LET'S TALK ABOUT FEEDING

With Sam deTuro

Woodwinds Associates

As new products have been developed, and as research has given us a clearer understanding of how plants grow, many recommendations have needed to be revised accordingly.

The types of fertilizers available for feeding landscape plants have changed and also the way in which we should calculate rates and apply fertilizers.

The fertilization of trees and shrubs is becoming increasingly important because of the great expansion of urban areas in the United States. Landscape soils in urban areas have been altered by increased foot traffic and construction. Good topsoil is removed during construction and not replaced and construction frequently results in damage to, or removal of, tree and shrub roots. The recent droughts and extremely hot summers also take their toll on our plants.

How and when your landscape plants are fertilized depends on how much care is given to your landscaping and the age of trees and shrubs.

The objective for mature trees and shrubs should be to maintain the existing growth without overstimulating new growth. Mature established trees should be fed every two years unless they show signs of distress.

Young newly transplanted trees and shrubs should be fed yearly the first two to three years to establish good root growth.

While age, analysis of soil and foliage are some factors to be used to develop a tree and shrub fertilization program, perhaps the best factor to use is simple visual inspection. Check the leaf color, size and retention. Check for premature fall coloration and leaf drop. Inspect for twig and branch elongation and retention and the overall plant growth and vigor.

Most symptoms of trouble in those areas would seem to suggest a nitrogen deficiency. Also keep in mind diseases such as insects and disease.

Rather than relying on soil tests or visual inspections, many people prefer to set up a regular fertilization schedule. This is certainly better than when it is convenient or remembered.

For all you feeding needs call Woodwinds. We will inspect and give you the proper recommendations for all your feeding spraying, landscaping, and tree pruning needs.

Congratulations to Angie Austin, Janet Haring, and Barbe Delafield of the Stony Brook Garden Club for the prizes won at the Philadelphia Flower Show. Also to Susie Gance from the Princeton Garden Club.

THE BEST OF BOTH WORLDS — TOWN AND COUNTRY

Hodge Road

This magnificent brick Georgian is surely one of the most distinguished homes in Princeton's exclusive western section. Built in 1900, only four families have enjoyed its formal, yet gracious, ambiance that lends itself to elegant entertaining and family living. A columned portico opens to a spectacular "Great" hall with French doors giving a view of the garden beyond which are flanked by two stairways. Circular in design with dramatic columns (with 18K gold leaf finials), four opened doors offer a vista of delightful rooms. On the left an intimate library with fireplace, and the charming living room with cherry wainscoting, fireplace and French doors to the terrace. On the right, a guest reception room with powder room and a beautiful formal dining room opening to the terrace. A butler's pantry, a bright modern kitchen and a maid's room and bath complete the first floor. On second floor — the master suite which includes an enclosed sleeping porch, two spacious bedrooms each with fireplace and bath and a potential children's wing with family room, two bedrooms and a bath. On third floor — a two room office/bedroom suite, storage rooms and a potential bath. Among the special features of this exceptional house are high ceilings, elaborate moldings and seven fireplaces. $1,700,000

Serendipity Farm

In the delightful hunt country of the beautiful Amwell Valley in Hunterdon County this stately Colonial proudly proclaims its heritage and lives up to its name, which promises many unexpected and pleasant surprises. Meticulously restored and expanded, surrounded by beautiful grounds with gazebo and pool, it has become the elegant main house of this equestrian estate. The wainscoted center hall opens to a handsome library and banquet-sized dining room, each with fireplace, and powder room. Through the sun-filled two-story garden room (overlooking an enclosed brick terrace), it leads to the gracious living room which is enhanced by a walk-in fireplace, barn siding and a wet bar. With its original walk-in fireplace and spacious breakfast area, the kitchen continues the tradition that it is the heart of a home. A study with stone walls and a full bath complete the first floor. Stairs lead to a guest room with kitchenette and bath above. On the second floor are four bedrooms and two baths and the opulent master suite with luxurious bath and morning room. An added wing provides two complete apartments. A tunnel leads to a four-car garage with loft above. The complete 32 acre estate includes numerous outbuildings and spectacular equestrian facilities — $2,750,000.

The house on 5 acres — $1,600,000

ATTENTION EMPLOYERS

Our Tigers are hungry for employment opportunities. Here are a few where they can be of help:

Engineering, Computer Programming, Laboratory Research, Editing/Writing, Teaching/Tutoring, Marketing/Management, Medical, Legal or Architectural Assistantships

Their appetite is especially ferocious during the academic year, wanes somewhat over the summer and is enormous at the onset of the next academic year. If your business or organization currently has an employment opportunity or will have one in the foreseeable future ... Think Tigers ... and hire a Princeton University Student. For more information or to register a job, contact the Student Employment Office at 609-452-3334.
